THIRTY-FIVE DIE IN TRAIN WRECK

Express on Lackawanna Road Is Derailed.

SIXTY PERSONS ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED

The Crash Occurs at Corning, New York.

Train Runs Past Two Blocks Set Against It and Smashes into Passenger Train Standing on a Siding. Passengers in Pullmans Escape Death—Grewsome Sight Is Seen by Spectators.

Corning, N. Y., July 4.—More than thirty-five persons were killed outright today when a westbound express train on the Lackawanna railroad dashed past two block signals three miles from here and crashed into westbound passenger train, No. 11, which was standing on a siding. Sixty persons were injured, some of whom will die

The accident was attributed to the fog which obscured the signals. The accident occurred at 5:30 a. m. Several hours later it was said the death list might go to forty-five.

Several Identified.

The train that was wrecked was No 11 Among the killed, who have been identified, are Mrs. Reynolds, of No 211 Spencer street, Brooklyn, William M. Armstrong, No 1200 Park avenue, Hoboken, and Antonia Neva, of Cartaret, New Jersey

A wreck train was sent to the scene and work of removing the dead was begun within two hours after the accident. The workers were confronted with a ghastly task. In more than one instance pieces of human flesh, torn from the broken bodies of the victims, were picked with the smashed steel and timbers.

A temporary morgue was erected near the wreck where the bodies were taken. Later they were removed to the undertaking rooms.

Many Are Injured.

Corning, N Y., July 4.—Thirty persons were killed and thirty seriously injured at 5:30 this morning when a westbound express train on the Lackawanna railroad ran past two block signals set against it and smashed into westbound passenger tarin, No 11, which was standing on a siding

Of the injured many are fatally hurt The passenger train was loaded with persons on their way home to spend the Fourth.

The passengers in the Pullman cars were protected by the heavier construction of those coaches Pullman Conductor F. W. Drake, of Passaic, New Jersey, said after the wreck that he did not think more than half a dozen of the Pullman passengers have been killed. A number of them had been hurt by flying wreckage

The Coaches Smashed.

A train bearing physicians and nurses was rushed to the scene. A string of undertakers' wagons was sent from Elmira. The most of the injured were taken to the Corning hospital Some of the injured were so badly hurt that they could not be removed from the scene.

Coroner H B Smith hurried to the scene of the wreck and took charge of the rescue work. He sent a telephone message to this city, saying that two of the coaches had been derailed and had plunged down a ten foot embankment, being smashed to kindling wood.

These cars were of wooden construction The scene at the wreck was one of grewsome confusion.

Members of the relief parties picked up human legs and arms amidst the debris A thick fog prevailed at the time of the accident. This was believed to have been responsible for the wreck

VERY HEAVY STORM STRIKES THE CITY

More Rain Is Falling in the County Than Is Needed.

An electrical and rain storm entailing some little damage passed over Marion, Wednesday, shortly after 2 o'clock. Considering the time during which the storm prevailed, the rainfall was very heavy. Dr. E. H. Raffensperger reported the rainfall at his home on south Prospect street to be twenty-one hundredths of an inch.

The local weatherman explained that in other localities the rainfall may have been heavier, and that this measurement did not prevail over the entire city. The lightning threatened considerably, but early that afternoon no very serious damage in this city was reported The heavy rain of the afternoon was not very welcome in this city, where the carnival is in progress, and the farmers over the county say they have had sufficient rain to supply their needs.

Battle at Bachimba May End Mexican War.

THE FEDERALS ARE REPULSED

Rebels Get Better of the Latest Engagement.

Command of Federal Cavalry Attempts To Flank Insurrectos Under General Campos, but Is Driven Off with Heavy Loss in Killed and Wounded—The Forces Cover Miles of Ground.

El Paso, Tex., July 4.—In the first charge upon the Mexican rebel fortifications at Bachimba the federals failed to budge the enemy. The two main armies are now fighting the battle that, while it may not decide the revolution, will decide the control of the state of Chihuahua, held by rebels for five months. The rebels still hold their position after the first day's contest and the federal camp has not advanced northward.

A column of federal cavalry attempted to flank the rebels on the east, but General J. J. Campos and a command of rebels fought them off and back. The federals lost heavily in killed and wounded in this attack

Another federal movement was attempted from the extreme west of Bachimba, which was met by Colonel Roque Gomez and his rebel forces who fought in open order on the scraggy hills, where rocks afforded them splendid fortifications.

Strung Out For Two Miles.

Strung out for two miles, the rebels were able to hold this federal flank movement in check, but the federals remained close to the rebel lines.

General Gomez took personal charge of the rebel fighting, after arriving on the scene. General Victoriano Huerta, commander in chief of the federals, remained in a car two miles south of the firing line, directing the federals

The rebel capital will be moved to Juarez first if the rebels are driven back from Bachimba, but it will hardly remain there long, as the rebels will continue into Sonora The Sonora campaign has already opened and will be continued regardless of the outcome of the Bachimba fight for Orozco has sent from Chihuahua city in to Sonora all the men that he could not use in the fortifications at Bachimba.

WILL SPEAK IN OHIO FOR SUFFRAGETTES

Mrs. Mary Hutton, of Spokane, Will Tour Buckeye State.

New York, July 4.—Mrs. Mary Arkwright Hutton of Spokane, delegate from the Third congress district of Washington to the Democratic national convention, came into town from Baltimore with the disappointment of her life because William Jennings Bryan, "the greatest living American," wasn't luckier than Dr. Wilson. She stopped at the Waldorf for a brief but much-needed rest, and later boarded a train for Cleveland, where she will start making three suffage speeches a day in the state where she was born.

Mrs. Hutton is some pumpkins in the suffrage belt of the golden west. She took a very active part in the work which resulted in the enfranchisement of 277,725 women in her state. She demonstrated her popularity at the Spokane convention which selected the Washington delegation to Baltimore by receiving a larger vote than any of her brother delegates.

SENATOR O'GORMAN MAY BECOME THE HEAD OF TAMMANY HALL

According to political opinion, the nomination of Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, as the Democratic nominee for president, meant the downfall of Charles F. Murphy as chief of Tammany Hall, New York, and the New York machine, and that Senator O'Gorman would be his successor. During the latter part of the Democratic convention the report was circulated that Murphy's opposition to Wilson was mainly because he feared Senator O'Gorman and not because he opposed the nomination of Wilson. The cut is a likeness of Senator O'Gorman.

Columbus, O., July 4.—Speeding homeward from the Baltimore convention, at which he put in a solid week of strenuosity, but not on behalf of Governor Harmon, State Oil Inspector William L Finley will arrive today to find posted on the door of his office notice to vacate.

The governor announced the appointment of Benjamin J. McKinney of Marietta to hold the office of state oil inspector and the emoluments thereof until May 15, 1914. The appointment is to take immediate effect.

Mr. Finley, who is not aware that he is jobless, is said to have expected reappointment to this position, to which he was appointed by the present governor and which he first held by appointment of Governor Pattison. But the contrary announcement has not been wholly unexpected by Democratic politicians who have watched interestedly Finley's break with his chief in the pre-convention primary campaign.

BACKERS OF THE PARTY TO STICK

Roosevelt Waves Aside Desertion of Osborn.

COLONEL DECLARES HE EXPECTED IT

Denies That Financial Backers Are Weakening.

Name of New Political Organization Is Giving Promoters Some Concern, but Belief Exists That National Progressive Party Will Be Used in Conventon Call To Be Issued Next Week.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 4.—All reports that the backers of the third party had weakened and were about to withdraw their support were emphatically denied by Colonel Roosevelt. "Not one of them," he said, has the slightest idea of abandoning the cause"

This statement was made after a long conference with the inner circle of the Roosevelt leaders Those present were Frank A. Munsey, ex-Senator William Flinn of Pennsylvania, Senator Joseph M. Dixon, E. A. Van Valkenburg, the Philadelphia editor, and George W. Perkins. After a preliminary meeting in New York they came down together for luncheon at Sagamore Hill and spent the afternoon with the colonel, putting the finishing touches to the plans which have been prepared for the new organization and for the Chicago convention in August.

Colonel Roosevelt said that although the call for the convention was practically ready, he did not believe it would be possible to have the call out by tonight.

"In fact," he said, "I think Monday will probably be the day. For some 20 members of the provisional committee will be unable to be present in New York and it will be necessary to put the matter up to them by telegraph."

The question of the exact name of the new party has created some confusion. Manager Dixon is inclined to allude to it as the National party. The colonel himself had evidently not given the problem of a name much thought. "You can search me," he replied to an inquiry. "Progressive is the name that is best known. But 'National Progressive' is also a good one" It is believed that the latter name will be used in the formal convention call.

The statement of Governor Chase Osborn of Michigan, one of his original "seven little governors," indorsing the Wilson candidacy and denying the necessity of a third party, was waved aside by the colonel with a careless smile. "There's nothing new about that," he said. "I did not expect him to stick. We looked for secessions like Hadley's and Osborn's into the Republican fold on one side and into the Democratic on the other."

CONGRESS WILL PROBE SCANDAL

Representative Cox Is After MacVeagh's Scalp.

ANDREWS' CHARGES LEAD TO TROUBLE

Statements Cause Big Sensation in Washington.

White House Also Sends Out Statement, Declaring Andrews Quits Because He Is Requested To Do So, as He Refuses To Obey Orders of His Superiors—Andrews Mum on the Matter.

Washington, July 4.—An investigation of the treasury department by congress will probably result from the resignation of Dr. A. Platt Andrews as second assistant secretary of the treasury, accompanied by sensational letters addressed by Dr. Andrew to both the secretary of the treasury and the president. It is being predicted here that sensational allegations made by Dr. Andrew concerning Mr. MacVeagh's conduct of the department will result in the withdrawal of the secretary from the cabinet if congress finds the situation to be as deplorable as Dr. Andrew paints it.

Representative Cox of Ohio has introduced a resolution for the investigation. Dr. Andrew names in his letter to the president some half a dozen high officials of the department who, he says, will confirm his statements regarding conditions in the department and the relations existing between the various division and bureau heads and the secretary. Dr. Andrew invites an investigation by the president. None of the officials named who were in the city would discuss the letters of Dr. Andrew, but some of them appeared willing for their failure to deny Andrews' statements to be interpreted as a confirmation of them.

White House Issues Statement.

While Dr. Andrew's letters indicate that his resignation was tendered voluntarily, a statement issued by the White House said it was not. Following the publication of the letters the White House issued less than three lines of typewritten statement, as follows:

"Mr. Andrew's resignation as assistant secretary of the treasury was requested, submitted and accepted, in view of his failure to obey orders given him by the secretary."

Further than this the White House declined to discuss the situation. In the absence of Secretary MacVeagh, who is in Lancaster, Mass., neither Acting Secretary Curtiss nor anyone else would vouchsafe any information as to the nature of the disobedience on the part of Secretary Andrew. The retiring secretary declined to discuss the matter, saying: 'The whole story so far as the public need to know, unless the secretary should choose to say more, appears in the letters which I felt impelled, in justice to myself, to make public. The statement from the White House is technically true, although I think it has been known by both the secretary and the president for some time that I was on the verge of tendering my resignation."

The decision of the president to allow Mr. Andrew to go and to stand by his cabinet adviser is understood to have been reached at a conference with Secretary MacVeagh at the last cabinet meeting.

The resignation of Dr. Andrew and his letters, together with the White House statement declaring the resignation was demanded for a reason that was not given, created a profound sensation in Washington.

MAKES AN AFFIDAVIT IN HUFFMAN CASE

Juror in Bribery Trial Contradicts a Paper Filed by Senator.

Columbus, O, July 4.—According to an affidavit filed by Edward C. Fraas, one of the jurors in the Huffman bribery trial, the jury stood 10 to 2 for conviction at the time Judge Rathmell told the members it was their duty, both to Senator Huffman and the state, to agree upon a verdict. An affidavit filed by the senator in support of his motion for a new trial said the jury stood 6 to 6 when the court urged a verdict.

Court Bailiff Daniel Edwards filed an affidavit in which he denied the assertion made by Juror Clark Andrews in an affidavit that Edwards told the jurors the defense was responsible for their close confinement. Judge Rathmell will consider the affidavits in passing on the motion for a new trial.

WILSON WINS NOMINATION

It Is Made Unanimous by the Convention.

UNDERWOOD MEN BREAK DEADLOCK

And Others Are Then Quick To Follow.

Various States Rapidly Fall into the Wilson Column and New Jersey Governor Is Chosen as Man To Run Against William H. Taft in Race for Presidency of the United States—A Recess Taken.

[BULLETIN.]

Convention Hall, Baltimore, July 2.—The Democratic national convention at 3:14, this afternoon, nominated Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, for president on the forty-sixth ballot, the vote standing: Wilson, 990; Clark, 84; Harmon, 12; absent, 2.

The nomination was later made unanimous and at 3:38 the convention took a recess till 9 o'clock tonight.

Wilson Nominated.

Convention Hall, Baltimore, July 2.—Just as the Democratic national convention was about to start on the forty-sixth roll call on the nomination of a presidential candidate the names of Champ Clark, Oscar W. Underwood and Eugene Foss were withdrawn and Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, moved that the roll call be suspended, and that Woodrow Wilson be nominated by acclamation.

The business of the convention was suspended during the wild demonstration that followed.

When it had subsided Senator Reed, of Missouri, refused to give unanimous consent to the motion. A roll call was demanded.

"Call the roll," ordered the chairman. "Alabama," shouted the clerk.

"Alabama twenty-four votes for Woodrow Wilson," said Governor O'Neal. The delegation sent up a ripping yell.

When California was called Theodore Bell asked consent to explain the vote of his state.

Mr. Bell held a whispered chat with A. Mitchell Palmer on the speaker's stand and retired without speaking.

When Earl Brewer, of Mississippi, cast the vote of his state for Wilson the good-natured crowd gave a long shout in imitation of the Brower vote for Underwood.

Missouri Faithful.

Missouri stood gallantly by her guns. She went down fighting and cheering. When her name was called the chairman replied:

"Missouri casts thirty-six votes for Champ Clark."

Instantly every man in the delegation was on his feet. All hands went into the air, and the delegation in one mighty chorus cheered the leader by whom they had stood and fallen.

The rest of the convention admired the dashing picture. With one accord the other delegates sent up a cheer for the fighting men of Missouri, while the women in the balconies waved handkerchiefs and screamed.

Custer's last stand was in the hour of the naming of a Democratic candidate for president duplicated in dramatic effect by the little candidate for president duplicated in dramatic effect by the little band which still clung to the song of the "houn' dawg."

New Jersey Hissed.

No such pleasant ceremony marked the New Jersey vote. When the four votes clung to Clark, the delegates and galleries hissed the defection in the home state of the candidate.

When Ohio was called, Ed. H. Moore spoke of Judson Harmon and his victories in state politics, and said that on his record Ohio had offered him as a presidential candidate.

Moore then released the Harmon delegates but Ohio was passed for a time.

Oklahoma broke in with her regular internal fight. One of the warring Clark delegates demanded a roll call. The demand was withdrawn and the state joined the Wilson ranks.

The vote of Texas was cast by Miss Mary Francis Hall thirteen years old, of Bryan, Texas.

Held high in the arms of the chairman of the delegation, she piped in a childish voice.

"Forty votes for Wilson."

"Little Miss Hall waved a silken flag with the lone star on its field as she performed the last act for her state in the big fight in which it had led from the start.

The District of Columbia, sticking by the Clark ship cast her last vote for the speaker and went down with the ship on which she had served.

California which had passed was reached at the end of the roll. Again Theodore Bell sought to speak. He wanted to explain his own vote. The delegates howled him down.

J. Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, begged the convention to hear Mr. Bell. When Mr. Bell got to the stand there were cries of "No, no."

"Give him a show," begged the sergeant-at-arms. The tumult kept up.

"The gentleman from California is a distinguished Democrat, and has fought the battles of the party in the past. Let him be heard," said Chairman James. Mr. Bell proceeded:

Mr. Bell Talks.

"I want to assure you that when I return to California I shall take up the fight for Woodrow Wilson. Before I announce the vote of my delegation on the last roll call I serve notice that, if given opportunity after the vote is registered, I shall move to make the nomination unanimous. My state for forty-three successive roll calls cast twenty-six votes for Champ Clark and we determined that so long as there was a chance left to register our vote in what we believed to be a just and honorable place. California now, upon the last roll call, does her part as she sees it. She now casts twenty-four votes for Clark and two for Wilson."

State of Ohio.

Three cheers were given and the state of Ohio called Wilson, thirty-three, Clark, 1; Harmon, 12, with two absent. This completed the forty-sixth ballot, just three short of a record of forty-nine, which was taken to nominate Martin Van Buren. The story of the ballot had ended. Woodrow Wilson had been nominated as the Democratic candidate for president.

When the result was stated, Senator Stone, of Missouri, said:

"I desire to move to make the nomination of Woodrow Wilson unanimous."

"The question is upon the motion of Senator Stone to make the nomination unanimous," said the chair.

A great chorus of ayes put the final seal on the selection.

On the final ballot, Wilson had 990 votes, while eighty-four faithful delegates voted for Clark. Twelve votes had been cast for Harmon and two are absent.

The Jubilee Begins.

Then the jubilee of Wilson men began. This time it was not confined to any one element. Men joined in it in all parts of the house. The Wilson song, to the tune of "Mr. Dooley," came ringing from the New Jersey delegation. The entire convention was on its feet cheering.

A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, suggested that the convention take a rest for a while, and he called attention to the routine work yet to be done. He said the work of the convention could all be done within a short time tonight and asked that 9 o'clock be fixed as the time for getting back in session. The motion carried and at 3:39 the convention adjourned.

REPUBLICANS NAME TICKET

Hard Work Marks Course of Ohio Convention.

STRONG MEN ARE PUT INTO FIELD

Dillon and Brown Lead the State Ticket.

Contest for Supreme Court Judgeship Is Most Spirited of All, Judge Winch, of Cleveland; Allread, of Darke, and Spear, of Trumbull, Winning Out—Zeller for School Commissioner.

Memorial Hall, Columbus, O., July 3.—It took the Republican state convention ten solid hours of hard labor to nominate a state ticket that is to be headed by Judge E. B. Dillon, of Columbus. Hard work it was, too, and before the final wind-up came with the endorsement of the eagle as the national and state emblem, under which the favorite sons are to fight James M. Cox and his followers, who are now nestled under the rooster.

Following the nomination of Judge Dillon for governor and General R. B. Brown, of Zanesville, for lieutenant governor, the convention proceeded with the work of nominating the balance of the state ticket.

Making his talk from the convention floor instead of the stage, Seymor Tibbals, of Franklin, Warren county, placed the name of Lawrence K. Langdon, of that county, in nomination for congressman-at-large. The name of E. L. Lampson, of Ashtabula county, was presented by W. S. Harris; that of Colonel R. P. Scott, of Cadiz, by O. C. Gray; that of Colonel J. C. Bonner, of Toledo, by State Senator Deaton; that of Frank W. Woods, of Medina county, by Richard H. Lee, of Cleveland.

The first ballot stood: Lampson, 138; Scott, 73½; Bonner, 135; Woods, 134; Langdon, 265½. On the second ballot Langdon, with 369½, was so near the 378 votes necessary to choice that, on motion of Senator Deaton, in behalf of Colonel Bonner, the defeated candidate for the governorship nomination was chosen by acclamation.

Langdon Persuaded.

When Langdon saw that he stood a chance of being chosen for congressman-at-large, he insisted he would not accept the nomination. Friends, however, circled about him, and persuasian resulted in Mr. Langdon retracting his declaration, they declared.

John L. Sullivan, of Columbiana county, former state printer, had no opposition for the nomination for secretary of state and he was chosen by acclamation.

The same was true of Edward M. Fullington, of Marysville, auditor of state, who was renominated. Mr. Fullington's name was presented by F. B. Willis, of Ada.

The name of Rudy W. Archer, of Belmont county, successful candidate for the state treasurship nomination, was presented by N. K. Kinnon, of St. Clairsville. Thomas W. Latham's name was placed before the delegates by Joseph R. McKnight, of Huron county. Mr. Latham's home is in Monroeville. Prosecuting Attorney Hatfield, of Wood county, offered the name of B. C. Harding, of Bowling Green, former treasurer of his county.

Archer Is Winner.

Archer won on the first ballot. The vote was: Archer, 509; Latham, 65½ and Harding, 172½.

Freeman T. Eagleson, of Guernsey county, won the attorney genership nomination on the second ballot. His opponents for the nomination were Israel M. Foster, of Athens, and John A. Cline, of Cleveland, twice prosecutor of Cuyahoga county. Foster's name was brought before the convention by J. P. Wood, Jr., of Athens; that of Cline by Walter D. Meals, of Cleveland and that of Eagleson by Mr. Sheppard, of Cambridge.

The first ballot stood Foster, 185; Cline, 245; Eagleson, 316. This ballot was the first time in which the Lucas County delegation split its vote. After that splits in the Lucas delegation were common, if not the rule.

The Judgeship Race.

Successful candidates for nomination for judges on the supreme bench were Judge William T. Spear, Trumbull county, to serve two years of the unexpired term of the late James L. Price, of Lima; Judge Louis H. Winch, Cuyahoga county, and Circuit Judge James I. Allread, of Darke county, to serve complete terms of six years.

Judge Silas B. Hurin, of Findlay, of the third judical circuit opposed Judge Spear or the short term nomination. The ballot was Hurin, 326½; Spear, 411½.

For the long term, Judges Winch and Allread defeated Judge E. B. King, of Sandusky, Judge William Z. Davis, of Marion, now a member of the court, and Judge R. M. Wanamaker, of Akron. Judge Winch went through to victory on the first ballot with a vote of 410½. Judge Allread won on the second with 395½.

The Two Ballots.

First Ballot—Louis H. Winch, of Cuyahoga county, 410½; James I. Allread, of Darke county, 352½; R. M. Wanamaker, of Summit county, 318; William Z. Davis, of Marion county, 259; E. B. King, of Erie county, 144. Necessary for choice, 378.

Second Ballot—Allread, 395; Wanamaker, 289½; Davis, 47; King, 15.

The names of candidates for the supreme court will not appear on the Republican ticket. They, in common with county judicial candidates, will run as independents, without party designation.

Judge Wanamaker, who has been one of the most enthusiastic Roosevelt men in Ohio, will run as an independent candidate for judge of the supreme court. He so stated following his defeat for the nomination yesterday.

Is an Independent.

That he would be an independent candicate he announced some months ago, as he believed in following out the sprit of the nonpartisan judiciary ballot law, and only became a candidate before the Republican convention on the filing of the test suit which may result in knocking out that law.

William Kirtley, jr., of Defiance, and William H. Meinhardt, of Cincinnati, were easy victors in the race for board of public works. Oppositoin to ther candidacies was presented by Charles H. Geidel, of Coshocton, John G. Fischer, Cleveland and Frank C. McCulough, of Bellefontaine. They won on the first ballot, Kirtley with 381 1-2 and Meinhardt with 192 1-2 votes.

T. L. Calvert, of Selma, Clark county, had a runaway race for the dairy and food commissionership nomination. His opponent was Chas. S. Ashbrook, of Mansfield. Calvert was presented to the commission as "the 'armer candidate." Delegation chairmen, in announcing votes, filled the auditorium with cries of so many "votes for the farmer." Long before the ballot was completed Ashbrook arose and suggested that Calvert be nominated by acclamation.

Delegates Leave Hal.

John W. Zeller, of Findlay, former school commissioner, was nominated to make the race which, at the last election, he lost. He defeated Joseph H. Snyder, of Tiffin, and J. W. Carr, of Barberton, for the nomination. Snyder had been touted as a leader in the contest. Zeller secured 363 votes on the first ballot. Carr withdrew and the winner was nominated by acclamation.

Thomas J. Edwards, of Lima, won hands down in the contest for clerk of the supreme court. With 392 votes on the first ballot he defeated John S. McNutt, of Salem (241 votes) and Orten G. Lee, of Delaware county, who succeeded in mustering only 78 votes.

By the time the last nominations wer made, the convention hall was almost deserted. Chairman Burton was alone on the piatform with the exception of the secretary and tellers. Entire delegations had left before half the ticket was nominated and in numerous instances, a single delegate remained to cast the entire vote of a delegation. Not more than fifty were present when the final windup came with the endorsement of presidential electors, the adoption of the emblem and the delegation of the right to fill vacancies to the state central committee.

A. J. LAUDENSLAGER ROBBED WEDNESDAY

Fellows Pick His Pockets and Secure $14.

While getting off the Hocking Valley southbound train at the union station, Wednesday, A. J. Laudenslager, of Morral, was relieved of his pocketbook, which contained a little over $14. Mr. Laudenslager was carrying his little child in getting off the train. Two men in front of him moved slowly and two back of him crowded against him, which caused Mr. Laudenslager to become suspicious. Just at the train was leaving the station, Laundenslager discovered that he had been relieved of his purse, while the men he suspected returned to the train, and continued their journey southward. Laudenslager reported the theft to the station policeman. Jacob Kern, another passenger on the train, reported that he caught a man with his hand in one of his pockets, and that the fellow was one of the men who left the train with Laundenslager.

The police at Delaware were notified of the robbery.

TAFT CERTAIN OF ELECTION

President Has No Fear of Ohio Republicans' Choice.

Colu... July 3.—Taft leaders are satisfied that, if elected, all the candidates for presidential electors who were nominated will vote for Taft in the electoral college. When the plan of a Roosevelt third party was broached at Chicago the possibility of Republican electors voting for Roosevelt was discussed.

The nomination of Governor Wilson by the Democrats was so generally believed here to have put a quietus to the third party agitation that neither Roosevelt nor Taft men thought it made any difference whether the Republican electors named had been for Roosevelt or not. In the contingency of a third party in Ohio, the backers of that enterprise undoubtedly would nominate a new set of electors.

MUCH FRICTION AND CRITICISM IS CAUSE

MacVeagh Is Blamed for All the Trouble.

Assistant Secretary in Resigning Declares Secretary Proves Too Harsh and Bitter Whenever Minor Official Ventures To Act on Matters of Small Importance Without Consulting Him.

Washington, July 3.—Dr. A. Platt Andrew, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of coinage and the currency, today tendered his resignation to President Taft.

Harsh and unmerited criticism from Secretary MacVeagh and from the outside, and entire lack of cooperation are given by Secretary Andrew as reasons for his resignation. He says some of the actions of Mr. MacVeagh would seem inexplicable to a man of normal mind. Andrew's letter to the president follows in part:

"In presenting my resignation from the office which you have favored me with I deem it proper to acquaint you with conditions which have existed in the treasury for the last two years at least, and which are of grave concern not only to every official of the treasury, but also to the many thousand throughout the country, who have business to conduct with this department.

"For a long time the transaction of much of the treasury's business has been at a standstill, and an outbreak of some sort has been imminent.

"Many able and energetic treasury officials have had to bear the brunt of harsh criticism from people outside, who have suffered interminable delays in their business with the treasury, for which the secretary alone was responsible and at the same time they had to submit to criticism ever more harsh and more underserved from Mr. MacVeigh himself whenever he discovered that they had ventured to act upon some matter of minor importance without awaiting his decision.

President Taft accepted Mr. Andrews' resignation as assistant secretary of the treasury within an hour after his letter was received at White House. The resignation was accepted "In view of Mr. Andrews' failure to obey orders given him by the secretary of the treasury," the White House announced.

The president will confer with Secretary MacVeagh, who is out of town, before appointing Andrews' successor.

As a boy in the country schools and as a college student he never worried over his lessons. He had the reputation of being "just naturally bright." As a jurist he has displayed a keen mind. "There wouldn't be so much cause for complaint of delay of the courts if we had a few more Judge Dillons on the bench," said a well-known lawyer at the courthouse recently.

JUDGE DILLON IS NOMINATED

By Republicans of Ohio for Governor.

COLUMBUS JURIST IS EASY WINNER

The Taft Forces Dominate the Convention.

More Is Made That Minority Report of Resolutions Committee Be Laid on Table—This Brings First Test of Strength Between Opposing Taft and Roosevelt Factions. Taft's Name Is Cheered.

Columbus, O., July 2.—Judge E. B. Dillon, of Columbus, who sat in the legislative bribery cases, and who had hardly been mentioned for the office, was nominated for governor by the Republican state convention here today. He was considered a compromise between the Taft and Roosevelt forces, but it was notable that the colonel's supporters lined up for Arthur Garford, of Elyria, voting consistently for him after the first ballot.

In a short address, Judge Dillon thanked the convention and declared himself for neither faction.

"You need not ask me to what faction of the party I belong," said Dillon. "I hope for the success of the Republican party in November."

The Taft forces dominated the convention. The convention on the whole was harmonious, differing greatly from the turbulent scenes in Chicago. The convention at 1:25 p. m. recessed until 2 o'clock.

The convention reconvened at 2:25 p. m. General R. B. Brown, of Zanesville, was nominated for lieutenant governor over Edward Irvine, of Meigs county.

Columbus, O., July 2.—The feud between the Taft and Roosevelt forces in Ohio was made doubly apparent this morning when at 9:45 o'clock, three-quarters of an hour after the time set for calling the Republican state convention to order, only about one-third of the delegates were in their seats. This indicated that both the Taft and Roosevelt forces were having trouble in mustering the delegates to their support. In the meantime the convention killed away its time and waited for the arrival of further recruits.

The convention was called to order shortly before 10 o'clock by Senator Theodore E. Burton. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Lehman, of Columbus. General Kiefer, of the committee on resolutions, read a report approving the Chicago platform and endorsing the renomination of Taft.

The president's name was greeted by both cheers and hooting. The administration of Colonel Roosevelt was also endorsed and his name caused a slight commotion among the delegates, who were evidently in good humor.

Ex-Senator D. M. Massie read a minority report, drafted by the Roosevelt forces, which was identical with the majority report excepting for the endorsement of the renomination of President Taft. Mr. Massie made a short address pleading that the convention take no cognizance of "what took place at Chicago for the sake of party harmony in Ohio."

Harmony Is Urged.

General Kiefer, on behalf of the majority report, then made a brief reply in which he stated that "for this convention to take no cognizance of the Chicago convention would be to repudiate the action of that convention."

W. H. Boyd, a Cleveland lawyer, followed in an address advocating harmony in this state. He said:

"Personally, I expect to support the ticket nominated at Chicago. This convention can not right any wrongs that were committed at Chicago. Whether the Chicago ticket shall be endorsed, rests not with us, but with the people themselves. We should have harmony in Ohio by all means."

Warren G. Harding, who placed Taft in nomination in Chicago, made a brief address advocating harmony. He created the greatest enthusiasm of the morning, when he declared that he "did not think much of any political party that could not endorse its national standard bearer."

Mr. Harding concluded by moving that the minority report of the resolutions committee be laid on the table. This brought the first test of strength between the opposing Taft and Roosevelt factions.

Report Is Tabled.

The vote resulted 426½ to 301½, and the Roosevelt report was tabled. Twenty-six were absent. Marion county cast a solid vote in favor of the motion. Summit county cast its full eleven votes against it. The majority report was adopted by viva voce vote.

The platform as adopted is semi-progressive, although making no radical departures from previous Republican declarations. Its most progressive plank favors the direct election of United States senators, and declares for the application of the short ballot principle to state, county and city administrative offices. Fair taxes are favored and popular government endorsed.

Nominations for governor were ordered in order and the name of Lawrence K. Langdon, the choice of the Taft faction, was presented by Charles A. Reid, of Fayette county. D. F. Anderson, of Mahoning county, was placed in nomination by W. B. Stevens, of Tuscarawas, on behalf of the Rooseveltians.

Arthur L. Garford, of Elyria, was named by the Cleveland leader, W. H. Boyd, and on behalf of the Cincinnati delegation, Albert Morrill, one of the youngsters of the convention, in a "fighting" speech, presented the name of B. H. Kroger.

The first roll call resulted as follows:

First Ballot—Landgon, 203; Anderson, 102½; Garford, 232½; Kroger, 156.

Necessary to nominate, 378. A second ballot was ordered.

Second Ballot—Kroger, 165½; Langdon, 246½; Garford, 252; Anderson, sixty-nine.

Third Ballot—Langdon, 253½; Kroger, 150; Anderson, forty-six; Garford, 270; Judge E. B. Dillon, twenty-one.

Fourth Ballot—Langdon, 101½; Kroger, ninety-seven; Anderson, twenty-six; Garford, 253½; Dillon, 259.

During the fourth ballot, a vote was cast from the Paulding county delegation for Rodney J. Diegle, now confined in the state pen under sentence of three years for bribery. The incident caused much hissing although it was evidently intended as a joke.

Hamilton and Cuyahoga counties have voted for Dillon and his election seems assured.

Fifth Ballot—Dillon, 525; Garford, 207; Langdon, eight.

IS KILLED WHEN AUTO TURNS OVER

Clevelander Loses Life Under His Machine in Ohio Canal.

Cleveland, July 1.—Fred Call, thirty-five years old, was instantly killed and his brother, Fillmore Call, aged thirty-three, was probably fatally injured when an automobile in which they were riding plunged into the Ohio canal at the Sixteen-Mile lock and turned turtle, Sunday afternoon. The wives of the two men and the dead man's thirteen-year-old son, Elmer, the other occupants of the machine, were uninjured.

The accident came as a close of a pleasant afternoon which the two families had spent along the picturesque hills near what is known as the "Old Mill" at the Sixteen-Mile lock.

The party of five had left home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 5 o'clock had started to return to the city, after having eaten lunch picnic fashion in the country.

The machine belonged to Fred Call, and the dead man was at the wheel. They had proceeded about three miles on their return journey when the front wheels of the automobile ploughed into some soft dirt where repairs had been made in the road, and the automobile turned a complete somersault.

W. D. CLARK LOOKING FORWARD TO A FORTUNE

Invents Machine To Cool Moving-Picture Theaters.

THE MACHINE MEETS APPROVAL OF EXPERTS

It Is Just What the Theater People Have Been Looking For and Have Been Unable To Find on the Market—A Patent Is Sought by the Inventor.

W. D. Clark, of this city, proprietor of the Columbia theater, has invented and applied for a patent on a refrigerated fresh air apparatus which he thinks will solve the perplexing problem of the stuffy moving-picture theaters and incidentally make him a fortune. Already a number of out-of-town moving-picture men have been here to inspect the apparatus which, after a thorough test, is being operated at Mr. Clark's theater.

The principle of Mr. Clark's invention is simple. After scouring the market to find something that would keep his place cool, and at the same time properly ventilated, he discovered that nothing suitable could be found. He then set about to make an apparatus of his own that would do the work. After long study he evolved his invention, which consists of a huge ice chest in the basement. The big box-shaped affair contains a number of ice chambers ranging over ten feet in height. Fresh air is forced into the ice chambers from the outside by means of a big electric fan, the air circulating through all the ice chambers and becoming refrigerated. It is then forced out into the theater and equally distributed. The cold air is so regulated that it is absolutely free of all moisture and is constantly changing. Experts in hygiene whom Mr. Clark had to come here to inspect his invention pronounced it to be just what the moving-picture men all over the country had been looking for to solve the question of cooling their theaters, and at the same time keeping the air pure.

FRIENDS AND FOES.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for July 7 Is, "Malignant Unbelief." Mark 3:20-35.

Popularity exposes a man to the peril of foolish friends and of fierce foes. The experience of Jesus at the period of this Sunday School lesson dramatically sets this forth. His Sermon on the Mount had just been ended. The college of apostles had been appointed. He had returned to his home in Capernaum. Out of a blind and deaf demoniac an evil spirit had been cast. This sensational miracle was the immediate cause for the events of the lesson, although the period was at the time of the beginning of the opposition of the ecclesiastical party.

Too Busy to Eat.

The pathetic multitude thronged the Healer. His plight is set forth in one of those wonderful cameo pictures in which Holy Writ abounds: "And the multitude cometh together again, so that they could not so much as eat bread. And when His friends heard it they went out to lay hold on Him: for they said, He is beside himself."

The exaltation of a great passion is beyond the grasp of a common mind. In Chicago they called Dwight L. Moody "Crazy Moody" at the beginning of his evangelistic work. That men should show a self-forgotten passion in human service seems incredible to the baser sort of mind. There is no popular objection to the delirium of the stock exchange, or of the baseball field; but religious ecstasy is sure to call forth approbrious epithets from beholders.

Samuel Pepys, the self-complacent little grafter, whose indecent exposure of his mind in his "Diary" has earned him the contempt of generations of readers, lived through great periods of the commonwealth in England, and the restoration; but he was principally engrossed in dinners and petty intrigues. He contemptuously flings the word "fanatic" at the Puritans who were fighting for principles far beyond his comprehension.

Great minds become so engrossed in noble pursuits that they forget the cares of the body and the call of nature. Edison has done most of his work on four hours' sleep a day, and very little food. He has gone for three days at a stretch without any sleep. Henry Martyn, the great missionary, cried, "Now let me burn out for God." The touch of the multitude and their clamant needs made Jesus indifferent to His own hunger and weariness. Contrast this with the ignoble custom of the millions who live primarily to eat and to please themselves.

Those Hindering Wives.

The over-anxious friends who tried to prevent Jesus from what they thought an excess of devotion have their prototypes today. Once a man has entered upon great service, he must resolve to disregard the calls of misguided friends who would turn him aside to the littleness of selfishness. One of the worst foes of Christian work among men, today, is the mistaken solicitude of wives. The average woman does not impel her husband to hard service, but rather constrains him, by continuous entreaty and coddling, to a self-convenience and comfort above large service. He is adjured not to attend so many meetings, not to serve on committees, to remember that he is tired, and that he needs rest, and should stay at home with his family. It is the consensus of opinion among Christian workers that if they gave heed to their wives they would do a day's work in their offices and spend the rest of the time at home, letting the world take care of itself.

In contrast with this common situation, is the case of many noble wives who have been the inspiration of men in public service. A curious modern theory attempts to vindicate Xantippe on this ground, saying that she knew Socrates was the sort of man, who, with a comfortable home and a reasonable amount of coddling, would amount to nothing. Therefore, she stirred up the eagle's nest, and sent him forth to the world's enrichment. We cannot forget the families who gave up their sons and daughters to distant mission lands, nor those other families which so adjust their affairs that the ministry of the father or the son is made the principal consideration in the household economy.

"The dead have been awakened; shall I sleep
The world is at war with tyrants; shall I crouch?
The harvest's ripe; shall I forbear to reap?
I slumber not. A thorn is in my couch.
Each day a trumpet soundeth in mine ear,
Its echo is my heart."

The Bigots Get Busy.

Fierce foes as well as foolish friends tried to hinder Jesus' work. Ecclesiastical leaders had come all the way from Jerusalem to oppose Him. Is there anything in the breast of man more malignant than religious tolerance? This seems the hardest of all the evil spirits to drive out. To our own day, despite the catholicity of gospel of Christ, it persists in malign power. Ecclesiastics have always been the quickest to turn to the torch for vindication. The tendency to call in the "temporal arm" has been marked in all religious history. No bitterness equals that of a church quarrel.

The heinousness of the sin of these Jerusalem scribes in refusing to see any merit in this new Teacher who was not of their party is set forth with startling seriousness. The grave evil of speaking ill of the good called forth some of the most solemn words ever uttered by Jesus. In their light we are summoned to sit in judgment upon our own narrowness and prejudice and tendency to misjudgment, especially in these days of political heat.

Famous Logic.

The emissaries from Jerusalem cruelly declared that Jesus Himself was possessed of a devil, and that He cast out devils by Beelzebub, the heathen prince of devils. This was a horrible charge. Jesus viewed it with utmost seriousness, and based upon it His teaching concerning the unpardonable sin.

Yet with amazing self-restraint He answered quietly, in those terse propositions of logic which have remained in the familiar speech of our time, demonstrating the unsoundness of this accusation: "And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom can not stand.

"And if a house be divided against itself, that house can not stand.

"And if satan hath risen against himself and is divided, he can not stand, but hath an end."

In another sentence Jesus proves His hostility to satan by pointing out that he had broken into the strong man's—satan's—house and spoiled his goods. He was the master and eternal foe of the evil one.

The Unpardonable Sin.

The fascinating and fearsome subject of "the unpardonable sin" was raised by Jesus in this connection. Note that the teaching was delivered against these religious leaders who had charged Christ's good with being evil. Says Dr. G. F. Maclear, "The sin against which these words are a terrible, but merciful warning, is not so much an act, as a state of sin on the part of one, who in defiance of light and knowledge, of set purpose rejects, and not only rejects but perseveres in rejecting, the warnings of conscience, and the grace of the Holy Spirit; who, blinded by religious bigotry, rather than ascribe a good work to the Spirit of God prefer to ascribe it to the spirit of evil, and thus wilfully put "bitter for sweet' and "sweet for bitter," "darkness for light" and "light for darkness."

The Expositor's Bible makes the interesting point that the warning is against blasphemy, which is a public, open revolt against good. It quotes Lange's words, "Theology would have been spared much trouble concerning this passage, and anxious, timid souls unspeakable anguish, if men had adhered strictly to Christ's own expression. For it is not a sin against the Holy Ghost which is here spoken of, but blasphemy against the Holy Ghost."

"Here is nothing to alarm any mourner whose contrition proves that it has actually been possible to renew his unto repentance. No penitent has ever yet been rejected for this guilt, for no penitent has ever been thus guilty."

The Real Socialism.

The discourse of the Teacher was interrupted by the claims of members of His family to special consideration. Perhaps they wanted recognition: relatives commonly do more boasting about a man's achievement than does the man himself. This incident does not show Jesus as disloyal to His family—we remember that His dying word was one of solicitude for His mother—but it proved His larger kinship, His devotion to the whole family of God's children, of which we can claim a part. Jesus was more than the son of Mary; He was "the Son of Man."

This occasion gave opportunity for Jesus to express the teaching that was inwrought in His Messiahship. He looked upon the people round about, and cried, "Behold my mother and my brother!" Spiritual kinship may be a closer tie than blood relationship. The friends of Christ are meant to be one family. The solidarity of the like-minded is greater than the solidarity of blood kin. This is the real socialism—the essential, unselfish devotion to the common cause of all who call God father. It is by entering into the family of God that the real community of interest and the real identity of spihit, which all social movements seek, is to be secured.

THE MOST TALKED-OF MAN IN CONVENTION

George B. Christian Is the Center of Attraction.

HIS WONDERFUL VOICE CARRIES LIKE A BELL

Can Be Heard in Every Quarter of the Hall—The Delegates and the Galleries Are Pleased—Everybody Asks as to the Identity of the Man with the Great Voice.

"The most talked-of man in the convention, Bryan not even excepted, is George B. Christian, Jr., of Marion," is the declaration of Judge William E. Scofield, who has just returned home from Baltimore, where he attended the national Democratic gathering.

Much has already been published in the press despatches about Mr. Christian's wonderful convention voice, but Judge Scofield says that it is not all the qualifications that the Marion man possesses to make him exceedingly popular with the delegates and the galleries. Since he assumed active charge of the roll call, the work has been greatly expedited. Judge Scofield asserts, with a good deal of Marion pride in the Marion man's hit.

GEORGE B. CHRISTIAN, JR.,

Before Mr. Christian was advanced to the reading of the roll and the announcement of results, the galleries, and many of the delegates, were unable to hear. But as soon as Mr. Christian stepped into the breach and thundered his great voice through the auditorium, everybody began to ask the question, "Who is the man with the great voice?"

Judge Scofield says that it is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Christian was the most popular man in the convention, last Saturday, because of his personality and marvelous ability in making the delegates and galleries hear him. "His name was on everybody's lips," said the judge, who stood five hours on a chair during the balloting Saturday.

"Who's going to be nominated?"

Judge Scofield smiled his famous smile when that inevitable question was put to him by everybody who talked to him about the convention before he went to Bucyrus, Tuesday. Then he replied:

"I don't know and I don't believe anybody in the convention knows."

Prime Minister Dies.

Belgrade, Servia, July 2.—Dr. M. G. Milovanovics, the prime minister and minister of foreign affairs, died suddenly Monday morning.

SOME OBSERVATIONS AT TEACHERS' MEETING

A Look Behind the Screen That Is Entertaining.

The following by Miss Isabelle Virginia Freeland is a contribution to the Sunday Dispatch:

By this time there is probably not a person, even in Siam or Timbuctoo, who has not heard of the Chicago convention, and as for Baltimore—but wait! And all this while not a cartoon has been drawn, not a joke made or a sermon preached about the O. S. T. A. Know what that means? The Ohio State Teachers' association, held at Cedar Point the week of June 25. Prosy? It does sound that way, doesn't it? Well, seeing is believing.

Now, when you went into the great lobby of the "Breakers" on the days the "marms" and "profs" were holding forth and looked for them you were fooled. Where were they? You saw many smartly gowned women, with all the fads and fancies of the summer fashion number; handsome men, well dressed—isn't it hard to find adjectives for men that sound just right? Anyway, there were people you'd expect to see at any summer hotel, and we were looking for pedagogues—the long, lean, lank "ladies," prim and modest, high-collared, long-skirted, broad-heeled, man-tailored, spectacled; or, the short, fat, double-chinned enthusiastic creature that always calls a man "dear boy." Where was the "professor," the scholarly person who lives on breakfast food and talks Henry James? Where the angel-faced superintendent, who smiles and talks, and talks, and then talks some more? Where! There may be, we know there "are," some of such species scattered here and there, but they were not at Cedar Point. It took a little blue ribbon on the lapel of a smart-looking coat, or on the pretty waist of some short, narrow-skirted, dashing-looking woman, to show that they were (but not in the summer, if you please) teachers!

Oh yes, they did talk school—that is, when they were not dancing, or boat riding, or sipping lemonade, or talking about summer vacation trips, or—but here, we must not tell too much.

And the book men! Say, they are jolly fellows, something like traveling men, only—nicer. Oh, yes, there's always a lot of these nice "book" men at state conventions, and they are so nice to teachers and superintendents, too.

Talk about romantic situation! Those beautiful parlors, quaint tearooms, long porches and graceful divans afforded all kinds of opportunity. Now, don't get shocked when we tell you that it was not an uncommon sight to see nice-looking middle-aged superintendents and sweet-looking young teachers sitting side by side talking in low, confidential tones. H-m—well—some of these men were married, for we had met their wives. Think of a perfectly proper superintendent doing a thing like that! And when we came along and lingered near, why they were so absorbed that they just kept right on, so we just kept on lingering. And when we heard him say, "You have a good personality and I am sure we will get along nicely together"—no, we didn't faint, just moved nearer to catch her answer. She blushed, hung her head a bit, and then looked up. A happier face you never saw. "Oh, this is so grand. You are so kind, and I'll try to make you never regret it." She rose and held out her hand. He took it. "I'll send you an application blank, Miss Teachem, and you can fill it out and mail it to me before the thirtieth."

Of course, we can't say they "all" talked that way.

Canadian Good Roads Idea.

The Canadians have hit upon a new idea in good road building.

Instead of asking rural communities to build roads connecting important cities, at least two large Canadian municipalities are planning to do a little little of this inter-city good road work on their own account.

Toronto and Hamilton, fifty miles apart, are desirous of being connected by a great asphalt paved street. These two Canadian cities believe that the money spent would be well invested because it would facilitate the transportation of freight passing between them.

The idea is interesting, and it truck is to have the influence on the problem of freight transporation that its friends claim it will have, it may be that large cities not too far apart will eventually take up the work of building and maintaining inter-city roadways.

For the present, however, it would be just as well for American cities to see how the experiment of Toronto and Hamilton works out before proceeding on their own account. The cost of building a fifty-mile asphalt road would be large—and the cost of maintenance would also prove a matter demanding very serious consideration.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

GREAT DIRIGIBLE BALLOON, AKRON

Explodes While 1,000 Feet in Air This Morning.

AVIATOR VANIMAN AND CREW KILLED

Thousands of Spectators See the Disaster.

Making an Early-Morning Trial Flight at Atlantic City, Vaniman Attempts Some Fancy Movements. Great Gas Bag Suddenly Bursts into Flames and Debris and Five Men Aboard Plunge into Sea.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—Plunged 1,000 feet downward when the dirigible balloon, Akron, blew up in midair, Melvin Vaniman, the famous aerial navigator, and the four men of his crew were dashed to death today.

The Akron had been constructed for a trip across the Atlantic ocean, and was the last word in balloon construction.

The flight over the meadows began at 7 o'clock, and it was just a short time later that the accident occurred.

Like a blazing meteorite the burning bag dashed earthwide, emitting clouds of black smoke. It fell upon Brigantine beach and rescuers, who dashed two miles across the inlet, were unable to give any help.

Besides Vaniman those on the Akron were Calvin Vaniman, brother of the aeronaut; Fred Elmer, George Boultin and Alter Gest.

Wife Sees Disaster.

Mrs. Melvin Vaniman saw the disaster from the porch of her home. She collapsed and is in a serious condition.

An hour after the accident and after the rescuers had given up all hope of finding the bodies, the corpse of Calvin Vaniman was recovered. Melvin Vaniman was personally in charge of the balloon during the flight and his crew consisted of four men.

After making a search of the beach about the point where the balloon had plunged downward, rescuers took to boats and began searching Absecon bay in the hope of finding some of the aerial sailors with the breath of life still in them.

Calvin Vaniman's body was recovered by a party in a launch belonging to Councilman Harry Cook. It was floating in Absecon bay. Although bruised, it was not burned.

Melvin Vaniman's body was headless when found. When the balloon was 500 feet above the ground, a human body was seen to shoot from the mass of falling wreckage. This was believed to have been Vaniman.

The wreckage of the balloon sank in eighteen feet of water on the beach. Divers late in the morning reported that they had located four bodies in the debris. They at once set to work to dislodge them.

Crowds Witness Accident.

News that "Vaniman has gone up," spread rapidly, and, despite the early hour, thousands were soon gathered upon the beaches and the street watching the huge cigar-shaped craft outlined against the morning sky.

After attaining an altitude of about 1,000 feet, the aerial pilot began putting his craft through fancy motions. There was no wind, the air was clear and conditions were ideal for ballooning. Taking advantage of this, Vaniman decided to show the people on the beach some fancy stunts. It was during these evolutions that the explosion took place.

Vaniman had made his third long circle, swinging through the air with the grace of a swallow. Suddenly, the 10,000 spectators saw a spurt of black smoke smudge issue from the rear end of the bag. A moment later the after-end of the craft shot upward as though propelled from a blast underneath. The smoke became denser.

Flames Envelop Airship.

Flames enveloped the after section of the framework. Those in the balloon could be seen clinging desperately to the frame. Suddenly, the machine shot earthward. In her wake was a thick trail of smoke. Flames billowed for many yards behind the blazing plummet. Many on the ground were sickened by the sight. Chief Black, of the fire department, a man hardened to sights of distress and excitement was nearly overcome. Black afterward said:

"We heard the screams of the doomed men for two miles across the water. It was awful. I tried to keep my head turned away, but the shrieks of the frantic spectators about me compelled me against my will to look upward."

This was the third flight of the Akron. About $75,000 had been spent on the balloon preparing her for flight. She was constructed along the lines of Walter Wellman's famous dirigible when he made an unsuccessful attempt to cross the Atlantic.

Vaniman was born in Springfield, Ohio, forty years ago, and had spent most of his life experimenting in aeronautics.

One theory was that a leak in the fuel tank caused an explosion, and that the flames from this set the bag afire.

Two other theories were given as to the cause of the disaster. One was that a dangling rope had been wound up in the whirling propeller tearing off the rear end of the bag, thus allowing the gas to escape into the igniting plug of the motor, and the other was that the rays of the sun caused the bag to expand until it burst from the pressure.

Constructed at Akron.

Akron, O., July 2.—The balloon, Akron, which was destroyed at Atlantic City, today, was constructed in this city, and named for the city because of the fact that the money for its construction and flight across the Atlantic was the idea of Frank A. Seiberling, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company.

The fabric for the big gas bag was made at the rubber plant here, and was shipped to Atlantic City in charge of Vaniman and his brother. It required many months of constant labor to construct the bag, and when it was finished it was pronounced to be the strongest gas bag ever constructed. The manufacture of the fabric was kept a secret for a long time before the details were given to the public.

A PLEASANT EVENING FOR CARNIVAL OPENING

A Big Crowd Turns Out To View the Attractions.

LIGHT SHOWER COOLS THE ATMOSPHERE

The Menagerie, the Merry-Go-Round and Other Attractions Do a Fine Business—The Visitors Find the Shows Clean and the Booths Very Attractive.

Paduano and his swarthy sons of Italy played "Everybody's Doing It," with every little instrumental movement to make it effective, and the crowd swayed in motion with the catchy ragtime air.

This was the signal for the official opening of the Moose carnival on Prospect street, Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Several thousand people swarmed through the streets, angling in and out, so as to pass the numerous stands and attractions. The crowd streamed both ways and at times had considerable difficulty in making its way.

Though rain early in the evening threatened to interfere with the opening, the storm clouds disappeared after a light shower, which cooled the atmosphere, and the opening was all that could be expected by the Moose.

J. E. Smith, owner of the shows, which are advertised as the Smith Greater Shows, was on hand personally to receive the crowds. Mr. Smith is quite well known in Marion, having visited here frequently. He is a brother-in-law of "Candy" John McClelland, of Crestline, formerly in business in this city. He declares that the indications are that, with fair weather, the Moose will reap a small harvest out of the carnival.

The shows are all that they have been advertised to be—clean and entertaining. They carry with them 125 performers.

The big menagerie is located on the Evans lot on the east side of Prospect street, between Church and Center streets. This was visited by hundreds Monday night. The merry-go-round on the same lot also proved much of an attraction.

Plans Are Laid To Banquet Woman's Relief Corps.

The Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., held its regular meeting, Monday afternoon, at the courthouse. Major S. N. Titus and Captain J. H. Carpenter gave a review of the state encampment at Springfield. They said that the people of Springfield entertained them royally. According to their report there were over 100,000 visitors in the city, and over 25,000 veterans in line. The reports were interesting and entertaining.

The post made arrangements to give the Woman's Relief corps a grand banquet, Tuesday evening, at 5 o'clock, July 16, at the hall. The post has also received an invitation to take part in the veteran's day celebration, at Columbus, Friday, August 30. A committee was appointed to ascertain what transportation could be obtained.

This meeting was held in commemoration of the forty-ninth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. Captain Marsh and Joseph Klinefelter gave a description of their battle experiences on that memorable field.

LITTLE OTIS DAWSON BITTEN BY MONKEY

Child Puts Hand in Box Belonging to the Carnival Shows.

Otis Dawson, the little five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Dawson, of Blaine avenue, was bitten on one of the fingers of his right hand by one of the monkeys with the carnival on Prospect street, about 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon. The lad was with his mother, and, as they were passing along the street, the tot ran to one of the boxes being unloaded. Before his mother could reached him he had put his fingers inside the box and was bitten. Fearing that the child might be poisoned as a result of the bite, the mother hurried the child to the office of Dr. H. J. Lower where the proper attention was given. It is not believed that the wound will prove serious.

WOMAN AVIATOR DROPS TO DEATH

Harriet Quimby and Companion Killed

WHEN AEROPLANE DROPS 1,000 FEET

Spectators Thrown into Panic by Accident.

Miss Quimby and a Boston Man Go Up on Harvard Field Near Boston. Something Goes Wrong and Machine Plunges into Dorchester Bay, Where Both Occupants Are Drowned—Story of Deaths.

Boston, Mass., July 2.—Miss Harriet Quimby of New York, leading aviatrice of America, and William A. P. Willard of this city, manager of the third meet on Harvard field, were hurled 1,000 feet into Dorchester bay from Miss Quimby's Bleriot machine and instantly killed. An admiring, applauding gathering of 5,000 people was thrown into a hysterical mass. Women shrieked and men jumped from their seats in a mad frenzy. The orderly stands in a moment were a seething mass as the crowds tried to rush to the western edge of Dorchester quay, where the bodies had been seen to catapult into the bay about 20 feet from the shore.

The staff of field surgeons were rushed toward the scene in automobiles, for at that time it was thought that there might yet be an opportunity to do something for the unfortunate pair. They arrived to find their services useless, for on reaching the edge of the field there was no trace of their bodies.

From the Savin Hill Yacht club a fleet of motor boats pushed out and raced to the scene with motors chugging at racing speed. They came to the spot where the bodies had seemed to vanish, and instantly those within them leaped overboard and dived into the four feet of water to search. A second later the two floated to the surface and were gently borne to the shore and laid out, where Dr. George F. Sheehan, the field surgeon, and his assistants began an examination. Both were dead and in the opinions of the doctors they were dead before they struck the water.

There is probably no person who will ever be able to tell what caused the accident, but some are inclined to the belief that the machine suddenly ran into a gust of wind that caused the nose to point downward too rapidly and that suction pulled Willard out of his seat to the rear of the operator and threw him headforemost down through space. The action of his weight forced Miss Quimby to follow.

Miss Harriet Quimby was born at Arroyo Grande, Cal., May 1, 1884, her parents having moved to that state from New England. While still in her teens she began to write for newspapers in San Francisco and made several trips abroad for various publications. She made her qualifying flights Aug. 2 of last year. She not only fulfilled the requirements, but set up a world's record for accurate landing with a monoplane. Her most notable achievement was a flight across the English channel from Dover, England, to Pardelot, France.

A FAREWELL PARTY AT MUNTSINGER HOME

The Ladies' Aid society of the German M. E. church gave a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. William Deutsch, of Chase street, who are soon to move to Pittsburgh, at the home of Miss Louisa Muntsinger, of Pearl street, Monday evening. The time was spent with social pleasures, and refreshments were served. Mrs. Deutsch was presented a gift.

THE RAILROADS.

Bert Myers has been appointed superintendent of locomotive operation on the Chicago & Erie succeeding the late George T. Menish. The appointment was made effective, Monday, and Mr. Myers has already taken up his new duties. He has had a great deal of experience along the line of handling locomotives. His headquarters will be at Huntington, and in his work he will have charge of the mechanical operation of all engines in service for the purpose of improving economies in the use of feul, lubricating material, tools and other supplies. His efforts will also be directed toward lessening the cost of the maintenance of locomotives and other operating costs.

The threatened strike on the Pennsylvania lines is fading away, and it is announced that there will be no strike. The trainmen, conductors, firemen and engineers have consented to appoint representatives to appear before an arbitration board. Each of the organizations will name two men, and the railroad will be represented by six men, making a total of twelve men. The trouble is regarding the employment of men on the recently electrified section of the Pennsylvania, the men desiring assurance of positions in case the total electrification at the same wage scale that now obtains.

TRAGEDY OF AIR IS NO WARNING

Aviators, While Deeply Depressed, Continue Flights Today.

Aviation Field, Squantum, Mass., July 2.—Although deeply depressed over the double tragedy last night when Miss Harriet Quimby, America's foremost woman aviator, and William A. Willard, manager of the Boston aviation meet being held here, plunged 1,000 feet from a monoplane to their death in a flight around Boston light, the thirteen aviators left on the field, declared today that they would continue flying during the rest of the meet. Lincoln Beachey dismissed the tragedy as an "every day occurrence" and was out early today trying his machine and doing his hair-raising stunts in the air. Miss Blanche Stuart Scott, who was in the air last night when the tragedy to her friend and fellow flyer took place, said today:

"It is what we have to expect. I will fly just the same today."

The bodies of Miss Quimby and Mr. Willard are at the morgue of the Quincy hospital and will be turned over to relatives.

REPUBLICANS OF OHIO ADOPT A PLATFORM

At Convention Called to Order in Columbus Today.

CHICAGO CONVENTION PLANKS ARE ENDORSED

Ohio Platform Deals Wisely with Direct Election of Senators, Agricultural Matters, Taxation, the Ballot and Preservation of the Public Health of the People.

Columbus, O., July 2.—Following is the platform adopted by the Republican state convention today:

The Republican party of Ohio, assembled in representative capacity, unqualifiedly approves the platform adopted at Chicago June 22, 1912, by the Republican national convention, and especially the great principles therein set forth expressing unchanging faith in government of, by and for the people, as established by the fathers of our republic and practiced and exemplified by its great statesmen and inspired leaders, always advancing and progressing and wisely meeting new and changed conditions incident to the marvelous growth of our country and population, in the settlement of our vast domain, in business, industry and world power while under Republican rule—the rule of the people—and thus securing equal rights and privileges to all the people.

We also endorse other planks of that platform which uphold the dignity of law, the preservation of peace and order and the authority and integrity of the court; which favor legislation to prevent unnecessary delays in procedure therein and to keep pure the administration; which favor the peace of the world and the settlement of international disputes without war; which oppose special privileges and monopoly; which express belief in the equitably adjusted tariff on American products of farm and factory, whereby all producers and toilers will receive just and rightful rewards and all American industries and business interests will be promoted and may prosper; which favor economy and honesty, national and state, in the conduct of public business; and which affirm the long-continued policy of favoring and providing liberal pensions for the veteran soldiers of the civil and other wars, thereby doing a partial justice to those who bore the brunt of battle and secured by their splendid achievements the integrity and perpetuity of the Union.

We further endorse and affirm the Republican national platform in its expressions of pride in the success and wisdom of the Republican administrations of Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft; and we heartily endorse the nomination of William Howard Taft for president and James Schoolcraft Sherman for vice president of the United States, and we pledge to them, and to each of them, our earnest support in the November election.

We recognize the importance of agriculture as one of the basic industries of the state. We favor such legislation and appropriation of funds as will sustain and increase the efficiency of those state agencies now engaged in promoting the agricultural interests of Ohio, notably the College of Agriculture of the Ohio State university, the state board of agriculture, the Ohio experiment station and the experimental farms established throughout the state. We favor such other legislation as will conserve our agricultural resources and improve rural conditions for the practical farmer, for the construction and maintenance of a state-wide system of permanent roadways, and the extension of the present rural system of free delivery of mail.

We recognize that the promotion and preservation of the health of all the people are fundamental to their happiness and prosperity, and we pledge ourselves to the enactment of such legislation as may be requisite to secure an efficient centralized control over sanitary conditions in every part of the state and to guarantee pure water and pure food in every community. We favor the establishment and enforcement of such state and municipal regulations in regard to sewage disposal and sanitation generally as shall prevent the recurrence of typhoid fever epidemic, and of other infectious and contagious diseases. We favor the provision of adequate hospital facilities and convalescent camps for the treatment of tuberculosis patients, and for the ultimate extinction of that disease. We favor, also, the extension of recreation grounds and parks maintained by the state and its subdivisions, so that natural beauty spots and public playgrounds in every part of Ohio may be secured in perpetuity to all the people. We commend the progress already made in legislation for promoting and preserving the health, life and bodily security of employes in mines, workshops and factories, and we favor such legislation and administration as will more effectually promote those objects, improve the conditions of labor, particularly of women and children, and prevent the evils of overcrowding in cities. We also pledge ourselves to the enactment and enforcement of legislation for securing prompt and equitable compensation to workingmen and their dependents in all cases of fatal or disabling accidents or occupational diseases; especially favor the adoption of the eight-hour day.

We recognize that the cause of popular government is involved in the interest which the voters of Ohio shall take in the approaching special election upon the amendments to the organic law of the state proposed by the nonpartisan constitutional convention, and we commend to the discriminating attention of the people the painstaking work of tha body. We pledge ourselves, moreover, to the prompt enactment of such laws as may be required to give full effect to all such amendments as the people shall adopt.

We favor the enactment of such legislation as will correct existing inequalities in taxation, and provide for a better equalization of the tax values of property, real and personal, at but not above its true value in money, to the end that the taxing authorities may levy the lowest possible rate of taxation; we also favor a lower uniform tax limit so regulated as to positively safeguard the interests of the taxpayers against extravagance on the part of public officials, but in keeping with the natural growth and progress of the public schools and other departments of local government.

We promise to foster the public school system, by appropriating from the general revenue fund of the state, after the local levying power is exhausted, an amount necessary to meet the necessary economical expenses of all public schools; the basis of distribution to be determined by legislative enactment, in justice and fairness to all concerned; thereby preventing a backward step in the public school system, which is now threatened because of a lack of funds.

We recognize that honesty and fair dealing in business must not be penalized by statute nor hampered by unnecessary restrictions; but we favor impartial and intelligent administration of the present public utilities law and the more effective prohibition and punishment of fradulent stock issues, dishonest corporate management, and excessive services charges by public utilities.

We favor the application of the short ballot principles to state, county and city administrative offices.

We favor the election of the United States senators by direct vote of the people.

We condemn the criminal cats brought to light in the Ohio legislature, and commend the vigorous prosecution by the state of those involved regardless of party affiliations. We further condemn the scandalous conduct prevailing in the state institutions under Democratic administration, and the inattention to duty by those charged with the performance of state functions and receiving compensation therefor.

We submit that the record of four years of Democratic administration of the state of Ohio, abounding in crime, scandal, incompetence and extravagance, justifies the full and complete repudiation of that party at the polls in November next.

The second annual Patterson commencement of Claridon township was held in the M E. church at Claridon, Friday evening. The church was crowded to the doors

The rostrum, on which were seated the three graduates, Edna Campbell, Beatrice Palmer and Edward E. Longacre; Rev. W. H. Bryanton, the pastor of the church, and W. A. Earley, a teacher in the Claridon schools, who had charge of the commencement, was beautifully decorated Above the pulpit was the class motto, "Climbing Toward the Light," in the class colors of lavender and gold, and pink roses, the class flower, made a pretty floral decoration. Flags were also used in decorating.

A fine program was rendered. Miss Campbell sang a solo, in her rich, sweet voice, after which Mr. Longacre gave an oration, "Character in Government" His oration was excellent and delivered in a very able manner

Miss Palmer gave her essay, "The Road to Heaven," in a delightful way and her number as well as the others was greatly enjoyed.

Throughout the program the Claridon band and the South Canaan quartet furnished music, and Miss Della Irey rendered a piano solo. Rev. Mr Bryanton presented the diplomas and dismissed the audience with a prayer

THIRD TIME IS CHARM IN SELLING OF PIKE

The Pike Is Sold at Higher Bid Than First Received.

GILLESPIE AND DRAKE ARE AWARDED CONTRACT

The Rubins Pike Is Sold to F. J. Lauvis and J. H. Wagner, of Hardin County—They Also Get the Contract for Building the Miles Pike in Grand Township.

The contracts for three pikes, one of them being a joint-county road, were awarded in the office of County Surveyor George E. Dwyer, last Saturday. Only one bid was received on each pike.

The Emohiser pike, two and three-quarters of a mile long, located in Tully township, was secured by Joseph D. Gillespie and E. E. Drake at their bid of $10,953. The estimated cost of the improvement was $11,083. This made the third time the pike was offered for sale. The first time the pike commissioners thought that the only bid received was too high. No bids were received the second time and this time it sold for more than the first bid.

The Rubins pike, two and one-half miles long, located in Grand township, Marion county, and Goshen township, Hardin county, was awarded to F. J. Lauvis and J. H. Wagner, of Hardin county, at their bid of $8,478.50. The estimate was $8,829.

Messrs. Lauvis and Wagner also got the contract for the Miles pike at their bid of $6,242.56. The estimate was $6,402.

The Miles pike is located in Grand township and is about two miles long.

Mr. Lauvis owns a stone quarry in Hardin county, and the Rubins and Miles pikes are located near his stone crusher.

GEORGE CHRISTIAN, JR., GIVEN A HAND

When His Voice Is Heard at Baltimore.

The convention rose up and welcomed George Christian, Jr., of Marion, when he was introduced as reading secretary on the fifth ballot, and let his great voice roll out among the arched galleries. The newspaper men led the applause, and the veterans remarked "Another Johnny Malloy, of Ohio, by George." Mr. Christian's experience in a number of state conventions has made him invaluable to the executive staff on the stage, as his knowledge of affairs expedites business.

Upon the reassembling of the convention tonight, David L. Baumgarten, of Cincinnati, appoared at the reading, or rather "hollering" clerk's desk. The truth must be told. Baumgarten has a good voice, but he cannot "holler" with George Christian, the Marion megaphone.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT AND THE FIGHT FOR THE PEOPLE

Mr. Roosevelt, in his retreat at Oyster Bay, is still pursuing the policy, born partly of his egregious egotism and partly of his belief that he can continue to fool a majority of the people all the time. He still protests that he is making a fight for the common people of his country, and that he is their sole bulwark against the dominant sway of "special interests." In this sort of clap-trap, he is abetted by certain newspapers, all of which are absolutely owned or controlled by the same "interests" they pretend to assail.

It is time that the aforesaid "plain people"—if by this term is meant the sober, respectable citizenship which earns its living in industrious employment in field and shop, in factory, office or other avocation by fag of brain or stretch of muscle—should realize the facts of the case.

Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy had but one cause—his own lust for power and conspicuity. He had confided, four years ago, to his closest friends his hope to succeed Mr. Taft at the end of his second term; but he could not wait. There was nothing in the situation that invited his irruption. The country was at peace and prosperous. The administration was working in harmony with his own announced plans and purposes when he was in office. He was personally on good terms with Mr. Taft, even if there had been some slight irritations bred only of offended vanity. He had called upon Mr. Taft for aid in his New York fight two years ago, and Mr. Taft had promptly responded even at immense cost to himself. He had, within a year, urged a policy of armed intervention in Mexico and in the most fraternal terms had begged for an army command.

But he was out of the limelight, and he was not happy in its shadow. He had an assured position, but it carried no power to make it tolerable. Then came the flatterers—the money kings, who had failed to win favor or favors from Taft; the "malefactors of great wealth," who had been indicted by the courts under the president's single-minded purpose of enforcing the law without discrimination; the men who had held office and fallen from place; the rabble of place-hunters, for whom Mr. Taft had not provided, in many instances because he had retained in office the friends of Roosevelt; all the failures, the incompetents, the political tramps and the political soldiers of fortune, willing to fight under any banner which promised excitement and loot.

It was not in the vanity of the man to resist their flatteries. His best friends tried to dissuade him—and forfeited his friendship. He closed his mind to all considerations of pledged faith, of personal friendships, of established precedents, customs and traditions, of party fealty and loyalty, of established principles written by him into the record of his career and the history of his administration, and became a candidate.

He sought an issue and found it in an assault upon the integrity of the courts. He had always been inherently lawless, so far as his own conduct was concerned, and had always resented when he did not disregard the restraints of the law. He announced that he would not seek, but would accept a nomination if tendered him. But each day saw him more anxious, more intoxicated by lust for renewed power and the stimulus of cheering throngs. Each day his policies changed, each day he sloughed off old principles and grew new ones over night. Each day he grew more bitter in invective, less coherent in explanation.

Proclaiming himself the foe of the "special interests," he accepted the help and guidance of the very apostles of privilege, and the money of Wall street was poured out in millions to subvert the primaries he urged as the means of political salvation. With Perkins at his elbow, with Morgan, Rockefeller, Archbold, McCormick and Hanna at his back, he dared to assert that he was the champion of the poor against these very men. This is not mere assertion; it is fact, susceptible of proof, apparent to every one who watched the proceedings or who was familiar with Wall street sentiment. No one can name a single big Wall street operator, who was for Taft in the struggle.

Denouncing the "political boss," he allied with himself every machine politician disgruntled by the president's characteristic inability or disinclination to run his office on machine lines or on a strictly partisan basis.

Preaching the "square deal," he resorted to libel, misrepresentation and slander. Declaring for the purification of politics, he financed a deliberate attempt to steal the convention by instituting fraudulent contests in many states.

Boasting of his courage, he whined and yelped when his plans were defeated.

Claiming unselfish devotion to a principle and disclaiming any desire for new personal distinction, he refused to permit the delegates he voted or silenced at will to consider any candidate other than himself even among his own chief followers.

Declaring that his fight was a holy war along the line of a definite policy, he assembled a crowd, called it a convention, sought at its hands and accepted from it a nomination before it had framed a single declaration of purpose or even chosen a name.

The responsible men of his faction have fallen away from him until he now has but a Falstaff's army under his colors But it is not a ragged army. The commissariat is well provided. Perkins and the money bags of his trust brothers are still at the command of this swashbuckler. They do not hope to elect Roosevelt, although he gave them ready assistance when in power, but they do hope to defeat Taft, the president, who can not be coaxed or bought or frightened from his attitude of determined enforcement of the law without discrimination. These men have no party fealty and so they will join any party which promises the least interference with their activities. The defeat of Taft, no matter who succeeds, would, they feel, serve as a warning to all independent, conscientious statesmen of their invincible power to punish and reward.

Mr. Taft's fight is the people's fight, and we have faith that they will come to realize it as they learn the inside of the doings at Chicago and Baltimore and place a proper estimate upon the character of Theodore Roosevelt, in its late revolution, and upon the sinister designs of the men who furnished the millions for his late exposition.

GOOD WORK DONE BY THE OHIO REPUBLICANS

The Republican convention at Columbus performed its work well. It adopted a platform that all Republicans may stand upon. It named a strong ticket. It made a third party movement impossible. It ameliorated the party feeling, brought the warring factions in touch again, and the delegates went to their homes, committed not to loyalty alone, but with a new spirit and determination to replace Ohio in the Republican column.

Friends of President Taft were in supreme control, not bossed, as the Dillon nomination so convincingly attests, but in essential touch to do the best for the party. They were neither defiant nor suppliant. They were ready for harmony, for a healed breach and for fairness. All of this, made manifest without apology, after the skirmish at the opening, sent the Roosevelt followers to their homes, recommitted to party loyalty and feeling it is good to be enrolled among Ohio Republicans.

The division on the endorsement of the Chicago convention was not a bit of political wisdom, and is hardly a fair reflection of the best judgment of Brown and Garford and Massie, but there was still a bit of resentment, and it had to be expressed, and the Roosevelt following seemed improved in feeling when purged of that final bit of opposition.

The support of Garford for Governor was natural, laudable and loyal on the part of the Roosevelt followers. Garford is worthy, and it was the way back to the party campfires. It was apparent from the start that neither Garford nor Langdon could be nominated, but any formal presentation of another candidate would have appeared to stamp the candidate as a factional representative. So the Dillon candidacy came naturally, grew spontaneously, and triumphed in harmony, and from that moment the convention moved toward an old-time, united body of Republicans.

The fear of defeat, so much proclaimed amid the warfare, was gradually dispelled. County and district leaders, and state leaders, too, no longer assailed nor discredited, saw the atmosphere clear The dividing lines were wiped out in completing the ticket The Roosevelt forces were recognized in the nominations of Judge Winch, William Kirtley, Freeman Eagleson and Professor Zeller Not a candidate was named who was offensive to factions Kirtley had been strenuously active for Colonel Roosevelt, but his personality pleaded in his favor; and Fullington drew no opposition, though known to have been strongly engaged in the Colonel's Ohio campaign All that preceded the Chicago convention was ignored. President Taft and the Chicago platform were endorsed, a platform of conscience was proclaimed, and Ohio Republicans will immediately begin a battle that will end in victory next November.

THE REPUBLICAN LEADERS NAMED AT COLUMBUS.

The Republican state ticket is notable for able and brilliant leaders Judge Dillon, whose nomination was unsought, is in the very prime of life, has a brilliant record on the bench, possesses an attractive personality, looks every inch a big manly man, speaks with persuasion and force and will be able to make an effective and winning campaign. Into the unusual situation in Ohio, he comes unopposed by factions, with a record of party loyalty and regularity. His public service nas been clean and his affiliations unembarassing. No better solution of the difficult situation could have ben proposed by anybody

General R. B. Brown, for lieutenant governor, is an ideal nominee. The general is big enough for governor, he is one of the big men of Ohio. He is a lovable old war-horse, with the spirit and vigor of a college youth, and is not only exceptionally informed in public matters, but has the ability to tell what he knows He will be an effective campaigner. More, General Brown has been commander of the G A R, and is beloved by every veteran soldier in Ohio.

Dillon and Brown, in harmony with the national leadership of President Taft, will lead the march to the Republican restoration in Ohio.

NEED OF SHORT BALLOT SHOWN BY CONVENTION

The reader of the reports of the Republican state convention, who noted the scant attendance in the closing hour, probably inclined to the belief that it was lack of interest or concern. Such was not the case The truth is that the delegates were worn out, after more than ten hours of almost continuous session on an extremely uncomfortable day. The hour had grown late and delegates were eager to catch trains to their homes.

The nomination of some fifteen candidates is no small task, especially when some of them require numerous ballots. Tuesday's Republican convention was itself an argument for the short ballot that the Republican platform commends. All the officers on the state ticket save governor, lieutenant governor and possibly auditor of state, should be appointed. Of course we do not include the congressman-at-large. We are sure the elected head of the state government would choose heads of departments of the highest ability and greatest fitness, and these heads would be quite as close to the people as they are when elected. The people can not well judge of the individual fitness of fifteen state candidates. A representative convention can not. This is the truth, whether it is agreeable or not. But a responsible appointing authority would look well into the merits of candidates before he would assume the burden of naming them. There is no progression more appealing than the short ballot. We have too much nomination, too many to choose at elections. We are finding the short ballot in the municipality a decided improvement. It would fit well into an improvement of county public service. The commission plan of governing municipalities probably deserves the praise it is receiving. If it is a success in municipalities, it ought to succeed fully as well in the county. Perhaps we shall come to it. At any rate the short ballot will be a decided advance But loading a ballot with referendums will only make it worse than long, it will make it cumbersome and confusing.

Marion Republicans and his fellow townsmen generally are much disappointed that Judge Davis was not nominated for judge of the supreme court. Judge Davis has been one of the great, fearless minds of the supreme court of Ohio, and though having served nearly thirteen years, he is in the very meridian of his usefulness on the bench. His defeat is not to be accepted as a lack of regard and esteem on the part of Ohio Republicans Younger and very active candidates were in the field, and the fortunes of the convention brought an unfavorable situation. The great city of Cleveland and western Ohio had gone without recognition on the ticket, up to the time of choosing judicial candidates and Judge Davis lost through the exigencies of convention politics. This is written in explanation, rather than attempted consolation Marion believes that a more able and more fearless judge has not honored himself and Ohio on the supreme bench.

The Fargo News suggests that when Colonel Goethals has completed the Panama canal he be given charge of the work of reclaiming the Mississippi and confining it to permanent banks. But by that time the colonel will probably have been driven out of the government service by a job-hunting, nepotic congress. In any event, he will probably not wish to undertake another task so gigantic. If the service were not subject to such assaults from congress as the recent attempt to degrade Generals Wood and Funston and Colonel Goethals, other capable men would be ambitiously training for the great work. We confess we should like to see General Wood made national health officer with ample powers, such as he exercised when he eliminated yellow fever from Cuba and stopped its ravages on our southern coast.

All the talk about Republican electors not standing by President Taft, in case of their election, is foolish to the highest degree. A man who is chosen as an elector on a ticket headed by the Republican candidate for president and vice president and voted against them in the electoral college would be guilty of a treason that no one in Ohio would care to face. The electors are all right, no matter what their preference was. And we will write a bond that our friend and neighbor, John E Hopley, will stand hitched. John Hopley, by the way, has a lot to do with keeping Bucyrus on the map

The Thirteenth district fared poorly in the state convention, losing both its candidates for the supreme bench, and its candidate for school commissioner. The presidential fight had wiped out all district unity. Judge Davis was not accorded half neighborly support in the other counties of the district, none in Delaware, but little Morrow and Union proved friendly neighbors.

Of course, the youngsters aren't having so much fun as under the old plan, but there will be more of them by night than there would have been did not the safe and sane Fourth obtain.

JUDGE DILLON, GUBERNATORIAL NOMINEE, KNOWN FOR HIS GOOD WORK ON BENCH

Columbus, O., July 4.—Judge Edmund B. Dillon. Republican candidate for governor, is forty-two years old, and the son of Rev. John Wesley Dillon, of Portsmouth, a retired minister of the Methodist Episcopal church. He has been a judge of the Franklin county common pleas court for nine years.

A stalwart six-footer, Judge Dillon has the mein and bearing befitting a governor. Born in the hills of Lawrence county, along the Ohio river, he was educated in the common schools and the Ohio State university. As schoolboy and later as a college student, he was one of the kind to whom learning comes easy. He had a reputation of being uncommonly bright.

After graduating from the Ohio State university law department, Dillon was admitted to the bar, twenty years ago, and began the practice of law in Columbus. His career on the bench has gained him wide popularity not only in Franklin county, but throughout Central Ohio.

Two years ago he was nominated for circuit court judge for this district, but was defeated for election by Judge Ferneding, of Dayton. Early this year his name was frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for governor, but he discouraged this talk, telling his friends that he cared only for a judicial career. He was then boomed for supreme court judge and consented to become a candidate for the nomination.

Late Tuesday, when a deadlock between Langdon and Garford appeared probable, his friends got busy quietly with the leaders. That this work was effective is now apparent.

Judge Dillon was trial judge during the recent prosecution of State Senator L. R. Andrews, who was convicted of bribery.

It is probable that Judge Dillon will shortly resign his place on the bench to enter upon his campaign for election.

Judge Dillon is married and father of three children. He was given a rousing reception Tuesday night by friends and delegates in the Neil House lobby.

MRS. ELIAS SCHAFFER BURNED BY LIGHTNING

Ball of Flame Descends Chimney and Strikes Her.

SECOND EXPERIENCE WITH LIGHTNING

Heavy Storm Sweeps City and County, Wednesday Afternoon, and Does Considerable Damage. Telephones Are Put Out of Order. The Streams Are Swollen.

Twice burned by lightning, Mrs. Elias Shaffer, of No 608 north State street, fears that the third time will be fatal. Wednesday afternoon, about 3:30 o'clock, a thunderbolt struck the galvanized iron kitchen flue, shooting a ball of flame across the room and severely burning Mrs. Shaffer on the right cheek.

Mrs. Shaffer was standing between the open door and the stove at the time. Realizing she was about to collapse, through fear and shock, she picked up a shawl and ran across the street in the rain to the home of Mrs. Frank Thomas. She collapsed completely on the Thomas porch. Restoratives were applied and she was soon revived.

Several years ago Mrs. Shaffer had a similar experience. That time she was more severely burned and shocked than she was Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon's storm was accompanied by an unusual play of lightning. Fifty or seventy-five telephones over the city were burned out, and the damage in this respect to the rural and village telephones was heavy. Fuses were burned out of street cars, and trees over the county were struck.

The streams of the county are rapidly reaching the flood stage as a result of the heavy rains of the past week. In Marion, Wednesday afternoon, the rainfall was not as heavy as it was in many parts of the county, according to reports received by telephone today. In a section in the northeast part of the county no rain fell at all.

The grocery at the present time is using two large rooms, although Mr. Hagmeier at first expected to use but one. As the extent of the business exceeds his expectations, he expects to use both rooms.

THE ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD SUNDAY

Lydia Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Pays Tribute.

EXERCISES ARE HELD AT MASONIC TEMPLE

Rev. J. P. Currin Delivers the Memorial Address—A Memorial Poem by Mrs. J. W. Freeland Is Read by Mrs. William J. Fies. The Graves Are Decorated.

The annual memorial services of Lydia Chapter, No. 83, Order of Eastern Star, was held in the Masonic temple, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, with a very good attendance. The memorial address, "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star," was delivered by Rev. J. P. Currin. This was the fifth consecutive time Rev. Mr. Currin has delivered the memorial address for the local chapter, and it contained many new and interesting thoughts.

The program was opened with a selection by the Philharmonic orchestra, after which the invocation was given by Rev. Mr. Currin. Miss Mary Fies sang a solo, "Oh, Morning Lands," by Phelps, accompanied on the violin by Miss Clara Leffler. Rev. Mr. Currin then gave his address. He spoke of the five points of the star, Ruth, Esther, Jeptha's daughter, Martha and Electa. He described the characters of each of these Bible women, and told what they represented in the order. His address was one of the finest ever delivered before Lydia chapter.

After another selection by the orchestra, the memorial ceremony was conducted by Mrs. William J. Fies. A large vase had been placed near the speaker, and Rec. Mr. Currin arose and said, "The vase is empty; we will fill it in memory of our departed brothers and sisters." Mrs. Fies read a memorial written by Mrs. J. W. Freeland, and, near the close of it, called the names of the chapter's dead. As each name was called, Miss Cleo Lunger and Miss Isabelle Freeland dropped a pink carnation into the vase. The service was very solemn and impressive The memorial poem was as follows.

In Memoriam.

We read of days of chivalry,
In story and in song.
When gallent knights unsheathed their swords,
And rescued, right from wrong.

Into our lives has come
Someone who was a part,
Who twined the tendrils of their love
Forever, round our heart.

And now, we mingle Rosemary
With Amarantine flowers.
Although they've passed, the great "Beyond,"
Today, again, they're ours.

We seem to feel the warm hand-clasp,
While memory smiles through tears.
We hear their words, of hope, and cheer,
We had, through long, long, years.

As Bethl'em's star, to wise men, showed,
The holy manger place,
The sun of righteousness now shines,
They see Him, face to face.

"I am the resurrection and the life
"Believest thou this?" Christ said,
"Yea, Lord! We know our loved ones live,
We cannot call them dead."

So on their graves with tender hands
We'll scatter fragrant flowers.
For the love we have—for the love they gave,
For the memories that are ours.

Those Departed.

Those in whose memory the memoriam was read, are:

Abigail DeWitt, Mary Katherine Smith, Florence Parkinson, Mary Hedges, John Wilson, Rose Oppenheimer, Belle Bland, A. B. McMurray, Rosetta Knapp, Joseph Johnson, Mary E. Powers, Philip Domaugh, U. K. Guthery, Charles Clark, Rebecca Miller, Alice Hazen, Eleanora Matthews, Delia Clark Johnson, Ida Klingle, Frank Levy, Cora Barone, Mary Knoch, Anna Reasoner, James Cunningham, Charles Smith, G. E. Salmon and Alice Langstaff.

Miss Mary Fies, accompanied on the piano by Miss Grace Seffner, sang, "Abide With Me," by Parker and Rev. Mr. Currin closed the program with the benediction.

About twenty-five of the members went to the cemetery and decorated the graves of the departed.

GREAT SALE OF SEATS FOR THE CHAUTAUQUA

Over Six Hundred Are Reserved Before Ten O'Clock Monday.

The ticket and seat sale for the third annual assembly of the Marion County Chautauqua opened with a rush Monday over six hundred reserved seats having been taken by 10 o'clock. The sale opened Monday morning at Strayer's drug store, where a long waiting line was on hand for the opening at 8 o'clock. So many were waiting in line that Secretary Virden had the sale opened a half hour early to relieve the congestion. This led to some complaints, but was really a move to accommodate the public, since those in line would be the first served in any event. The Chautauqua board is sure there was no favortism, and none attempted, for there are members of the board who accepted reservations as far back as the 25th row. This explanation is made to dispel the impression of any design in opening before the advertised hour. It was solely to expedite matters for the waiting crowd. There were good reserved seats left at the noon hour, and the big, new tent will have a very large seating capacity unreserved.

Pledges to take season tickets may be redeemed at the Chautauqua desk in Strayer's until July 13. After that date the season ticket price will advance from $1.50 to $2 00.

The accident happened at the corner of Center and State streets. The boy was riding his wheel west, and was on the wrong side of the street. A. DeNune with two other parties from Columbus, were riding in a roadster, and were just crossing Center street, going south, when the Courtright boy rode directly in front of the auto. The boy was knocked from the wheel and rolled several feet under the auto, but fortunately none of the wheels passed over him. EPWORTH LEAGUERS NOW IN CONVENTION

The Sessions Contain a Great Deal of Interest.

DELAWARE DISTRICT WELL REPRESENTED

Young People Are Here To Join in the Work of the Convention and Share in Its Pleasures—Timely Topics Are Discussed and Much Business Transacted.

With a very good representation of the Epworth leaguers of Delaware district present, the opening session of the nineteenth annual convention of the Delaware district Epworth league was held at the Wesley M. E. church, Tuesday evening. Much interest was shown and the convention promises to be a success.

The church auditorium, in which the opening session was held, was handsomely decorated for the occasion. A profusion of crepe paper streamers suspended from the center of the room harmonized beautifully with a big emblem with the motto, "Look Up, Lift Up," on the rostrum.

The Tuesday evening session was opened, shortly before 8 o'clock, with devotional exercises by Rev. J. W. Donnan, a former pastor of Wesley church. Rev. J. W. Holland, of Upper Sandusky, who was to have conducted the devotions was unable to be present, and he will conduct the exercises this evening instead. Rev. M. D. Baumgordner, of Prospect, president of the district league, presided and presented Rev. D. N. Kelly, pastor of Wesley M. E. church, who gave the address of welcome.

Rev. D. N. Kelly Speaks.

Rev. Mr. Kelly spoke very briefly, but gave the young people of the district a most cordial welcome. He said that he welcomed the young people for two reasons especially, the first being because of the inspiration which they may bring to the church, and again because they could in turn gain inspiration and enthusiasm from those with whom they were associating during the days of the convention.

Rev. Mr. Baumgardner spoke a brief word of response. He said that he believed the young people to be the best young people of the committees represented. They were made so by being Epworth leaguers. To be good members of this great organization, the young people must be spiritual. It has strong spiritual leadership. Rev. Mr. Baumgardner spoke of the social side of the league and declared that this was a great source of uplift and inspiration, if properly used. In closing, he spoke of the convention, asking that the young people seek to gain as much as possible from it.

Rev. Mr. Baumgardner introduced Miss Mina Boger, of this city, who had charge of a social reception for the delegates and visitors. She was assisted by the leaguers of the city. A splendid evening of social intermingling was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Wednesday Morning.

The session of the convention of the Delaware district Epworth league Wednesday at the Wesley M E church, was very well attended. Several new delegates arrived for the sessions of the day.

The devotional services were in charge of Rev. M. C. Wiseley, of LaRue. J. G Miller, of Upper Sandusky, gave an interesting talk, "Has the League a Mission," and J. N. Canfield, of Delaware, discussed "The Development of Sacred Music" Mrs. William McK. Brackney, of Delaware, was unable to discuss, "Our Juniors,' and the subject was taken by J. B. Barker, of Prospect. All of the talks were of great interest to the leaguers. Mr. Barker emphasized the need of proper teaching. He said that nine time out of ten, if we allow the children to go without proper teaching, they will be lost, while if they are properly taught, they will become the supports of the church.

Following the talk by Mr. Barker, a general discussion was held and later the business of the district league was taken up for consideration. The reports were read and all of them were of much interest.

Wednesday Evening.

The convention of the Delaware district Epworth league will be held at Richwood next year. At the Wednesday evening session, of the convention at the Wesley M. E. church, one invitation was received, this being from the league at Richwood, and it was readily accepted.

During the evening, the newly elected officers, chosen during the afternoon, were installed by Rev. Wilbur F. Sheridan, D.D., the new general secretary of the Epworth league. While not all of the officers were present, the following are the new officers of Delaware district:

Rev. T. H. Housel, of Delaware, president; Nellie Parker, of Harpster, first vice president; Alta Bates, of West Mansfield, second vice president; Margaret Dike, of Delaware, third vice president; Mina Boger, of Marion, fourth vice president; Ruth Hecker, of Prospect, secretary and treasurer; J. N. Canfield, of Delaware, musical director; James G. Miller, of Upper Sandusky, F. C. Markley, of Radnor; Dr V. C. Kissel, of Marion, and Rev. William McK. Brackney, of Delaware, board of contral.

A Large Attendance.

There was a big attendance at the Wednesday evening session, in spite of the other attractions of the evening. Rev. D. N. Kelly was in charge of the song service, and the devotions were conducted by Rev. C. D. Cramer, of Richwood. After the reading of the report of the committee on resolutions, and the installation service, Rev. Wilbur F. Sheridan, D.D., the new general secretary, was introduced by Rev. M. D. Baumgardner, who presided. This was the first official visit of Rev. Mr. Sheridan in Ohio, which, he said, is the mother of presidents and bishops. He declared that about every time the general conference meets, two or three Ohio Wesleyan university men were made bishops, and that doubtless a number were growing up in the audience which he was addressing. He was loudly applauded when he made this statement.

Marion Moves Fast.

The speaker said that he could not remember when he had been in a place where there was so much going at the same time. There are a great many things running in competition with the Epworth league, one of the biggest things in the country, he said.

"Anybody that tells you that the Epworth league is decadent, you can just make up your mind, is decadent. It is necessary to get back to the original ideals of the league. While there may be some failings, the league is going forward and if there is to be a funeral it will be that of the critic, and not of the league.

"The great fundamental principles of the league are strong elements of Methodism. We can not lose sight of these great fundamentals. You remember that the monks, when first organized, labored for the uplift of humanity, but losing sight of the original ideals they came to be an order of greasy, and fat ecclesiastics, fond of short prayers and long sausages There are leagues that have lost sight of these original ideals.

Lesson from a Dog.

The speaker told of a hunter in Kentucky who used to have a dog that would "take the back track." He would start after game and whenever anything would cross the trail, he would search for that game until finally one would likely find him at a rat-hole. The Epworth leaguers, he said, must not allow themselves to take the back track, but must keep in sight of the great original ideals One of these great ideals, he said, was a spiritual experience. The mottoes and pledges of the league carry this ideal high If all the doctrines of Methodism were destroyed, there would be sufficient embodied in the mottoes and pledges of the league to take the place of all the experiential principles of religion As long as religion is merely taught, it is purely academic, but with the spiritual experience the league applies religion. The principles given in the Sunday-school and in the word as preached from the pulpit, are applied in the league Hence it is religion applied.

Story of John Wesley.

The speaker told of John Wesley, and his study in co-operation with other young men, until they came to be known as Methodists. It was not until Wesley got the personal experience thirteen years later, that Methodism was made what it is today. The league stands for a vital religious experience of Christianity applied.

The speaker told of his own conversion. This personal experience can do anything, he said. He illustrated his thought by a story of the raising of an old derrick at the mouth of the Thames river in Connecticut. No effort was successful until a young engineer devised the plan of placing a big flatboat in the river and chaining it to the derrick. When the tide rose the derrick was lifted with ease and floated out into the channel. The speaker declared that the great tide in religion was the personal experience which can do anything.

A Disciplined Host.

Rev. Mr. Sheridan emphasized the fact that the league is a disciplined host. He spoke of the social side of the league, and said that he knew of no place, where he would rather have his children associated with those of the opposite sex, than in the league.

In closng he spoke of the league as a ministering host.

The rain marred the Wednesday afternoon session. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. F. C Markley, of Radnor. Rev. W. McK. Brackney spoke of "Making Our Wheel Go.' The talk to have been given by Dr. A. E. Smith was not given and Rev. J. W. Holland took the place of Rev. C. R. Havinghurst, who was to have spoken on "General Conference Echoes." Rev. Mr. Havighurst is ill. Rev. T H Housel, of Williams street, Delaware, spoke of "Our Stewardship." The regular business was later given attention.

The attention of local people is now called to the fact that the spurious coins have reached Marion, and are causing something more than annoyance. It will, therefore, pay to scrutinize a dollar carefully before accepting it.

JUPITER, CHIEF OBJECT IN THE JULY HEAVENS

Professor Eric Doolittle Writes Entertainingly.

SOME OBSERVATIONS FOR THE STARGAZERS

The Motion of the Moon—Saturn Now in the Morning Sky—The Heavens Are Now Filled with the Typical Summer Groups—Location of Stars.

The whole heavens are now filled with the typical summer groups of stars. Exactly overhead there stretches out the great Hercules; in the north the Dragon has reached its highest position in the sky; the Northern Cross, the Eagle and the Archer are well up in the eastern heavens, while exactly south there shine out the stars of the bright Scorpion, which is the most striking summer group of all.

If facing south, hold the map upright. If facing west, hold west below. If facing east, hold east below. If facing north, hold the map inverted.

The July Stars.

Filling the whole region of the sky between Hercules, the Crown and Bootes on the north and the Scorpion on the south are the two intermingled groups of the Serpent and the Serpent-holder, which, though they are marked by no very bright stars, contain innumerable objects of interest, and which at no time are in better position for tracing out than at present. If the observer will face toward the south, he will have no difficulty in finding a rather striking group of five little stars a short distance to the left of Arcturus and directly below the Crown, and these five stars, of which three are shown at D, Figure 1, form the head of the Serpent. From here a quite definite winding line of stars leads downward nearly to the Balances, and then, turning eastward, passes the whole length of Scorpio to the star at N, Figure 1, after which the Serpent's body extends northward along almost the exact center of the Milky Way until the tip of the tail is finally reached at the bright star, K, in the constellation of the Eagle.

The stars at A, B, F and C are regarded as belonging, not to the Serpent, but to the Serpent-holder, Ophiuchus, and this great constellation includes nearly all of the remaining stars in this region of the sky between Scorpio and Hercules. The star at C is easily seen with the naked eye to be a pair of stars, and these mark the right hand of Ophiuchus, the left hand grasping the Serpent at the pair of stars A and B.

These two star groups are among the oldest of the constellations. No less than four of the brightest new stars of historic times appeared in Ophiuchus, one of which, known as the celebrated Kepler's Star, shone out near the star at L, Figure 1. All of the stars marked X are double stars, though some of them may only be seen double with a moderately large telescope. But this region is particularly remarkable for the large number of star clusters which it contains. One of these will be found at H, a little below and to the right of the star M; a still larger one is at R, nearly midway between the stars N and O, and there are a great many others, most of which require a large telescope for their observation. But so seen, they are remarkable and wonderful objects. Each is composed of hundreds or thousands of stars, gathered together into an approximately spherical ball, though whether each particle of the cloud is a sun so great as our own we do not yet know.

Besides these two important constellations, there are many other interesting groups which can best be studied at this time of year. Turning to the east, the strange little figure known as the Dolphin, or Job's Coffin, will be seen about one-third of the way to the zenith, while above this is a line of six little stars forming the Arrow, which is speeding eastward from Hercules to slay the Eagle of Jove. Turning northward we see the great Dragon swinging high above the Pole, a constellation which in early times was even longer than now and enclosed both of the Bears in its folds. The head of the Dragon is a conspicuous and easily found figure; this, with the nearby star at T, Figure 1, was called by the early Arabians the Five Dromedaries. It may be added that the head of the Serpent at D, Figure 1, is from its figure sometimes called Saint Andrew's Cross.

Planets in July.

The planet Mercury reaches its greatest distance east of the sun on July 25, and for a few evenings before and after this date may be seen shining low in the twilight glow, a little north of the west point of the horizon, for about an hour after sunset.

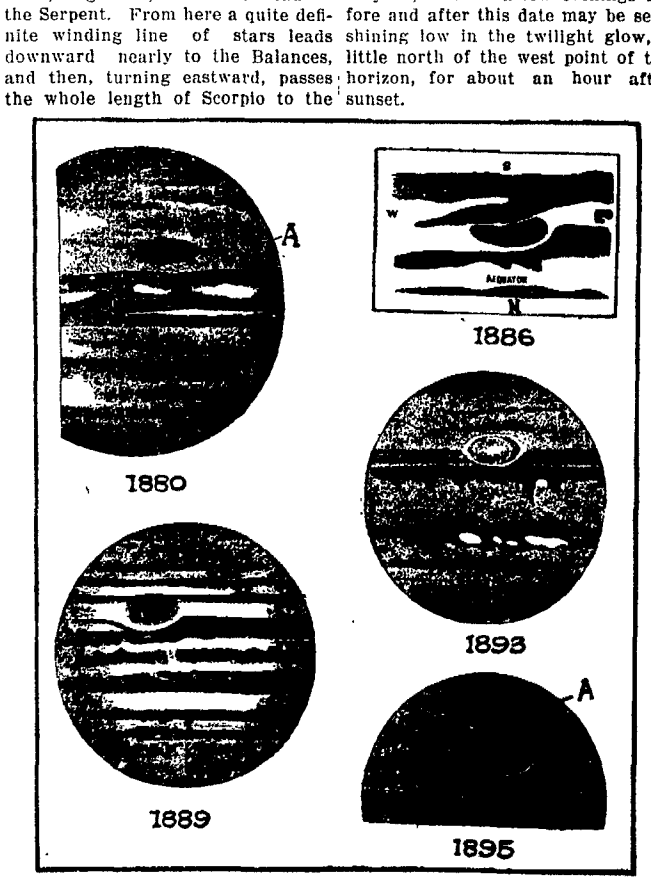

Figure 2.—Detailed drawings of the planet Jupiter, showing the appearance of the great red spot in different years. This remarkable feature first appeared on the planet in 1878 and has not even yet entirely faded away. It was 30,000 miles long and 7000 miles wide. In the square figure masses of vapor overlying it are readily seen. The black spots marked A are the shadows of Jupiter's moons cast on the ball of the planet.

Venus passes from the west to the east of the sun on July 5 at 9 p. m., but although by the end of the month it will have moved so far into our evening sky that it will not set until one-half hour after sunset, it will not even by that time have drawn so far down the sun's rays that it can be well observed. This planet is now beyond the sun, at its extreme distance from the earth.

Mars is moving so very rapidly eastward that during the month it passes almost entirely across the constellation of Leo; it is moving eastward almost as rapidly as the sun itself and therefore it remains continually visible in our evening sky. It will not be finally overtaken by the sun and so become a morning star until next November 4. The planet is now, however, very far away from us and in very unfavorable position for observation. It, in fact, now shines only as a star of the second magnitude; that is, is but very little brighter than the North Star and very far inferior to the nearby star Regulus, which a few months ago it far exceeded in brilliance.

But the most striking object in the evening heavens is undoubtedly the great planet Jupiter, which shines out brilliantly in the south, almost in the center of the constellation of the Scorpion. This world, which has proceeded so little in its development that it is still a great ball of heated vapors nearly 90,000 miles through, is seen even in a small telescope to be covered with the most beautiful markings and bandings. By watching these we can see how very rapidly the world is turning, for a marking rises at one edge, is carried completely around the planet and disappears at the other in a little less than five hours. The four bright moons, as they continually move around the heated ball, sometimes passing behind the disc and sometimes in front of it, and sometimes entering or leaving the planet's shadow and so being darkened, are ever most interesting objects of study. For example, on July 16, at nine hours, thirty-seven minutes, one second p. m., eastern standard time, the third moon will disappear in eclipse, emerging again from the shadow at eleven hours, forty-two minutes, eight seconds. On the same evening the second moon will move onto the planet's disc at ten hours, fifty-six minutes, not emerging from it until one hour, thirty-six minutes, the next morning. Similarly, on July 2, 9 and 18, interesting occultations or transits may be observed.

Saturn is now in the morning sky, and it each morning will be seen rising earlier and mounting higher in the heavens by the time of sunrise, but it will be many monhts before we will see it in our evening sky. On July 1 it rises two and one-half hours before sunrise, which time is lenghtened to four and and one-half hours by the end of the month. The planet is now in the constellation Taurus, just west of the Hyades; it will remain in nearly this same position throughout the year, so that when by next autumn the changing seasons have brought this beautiful group of stars into our evening sky, the constellation of Taurus will present a region of unusual interest.

Uramus is just on the borders of our map, but is still very low down in the southeast.

Neptune is passed by the sun on July 16 at 6 a. m., so that it is wholly invisible to us throughout the month.

Motion of the Moon.

The reader who observed the beautiful occultation of Antares on the 26th of last month was doubtless struck by the extremely low position of the nearly full moon in the sky. It is at this time of the year that the full moon is always very low in the heavens, because our satellite when full always lies in the opposite region of the heavens from the sun, so that as the sun is then highest in the heavens, the moon is necessarily lowest.

But the moon does not follow exactly the same path among the stars as that pursued by the sun; the latter is the path VUM, Figure 1, and a present the moon's path lies nearly five degrees below this line in the region of Antares and the Star at L. Consequently, although the full moons of June and July are always very low in the sky, those which occur this year are even much lower than usual.

In its monthly journey around the heavens, the moon will again pass over Antares on the morning of July 24, but unfortunately this will occur at about 5 o'clock a. m., after the moon has set to all observers in the United States. And on July 10 the nearly new moon will pass over the Pleiades, hiding its principal star, Alcyone, and a great number of the other stars of the cluster from our view. This is always an interesting and long anticipated astronomical event, but this occulation will also unfortunately not be visible to us, for it will occur in the early evening when the moon has set, but while the sun is still shining in the sky.—By Eric Doolittle, Professor of Astronomy in the University of Pennsylvania.

WILLIAM F. JOHNSON SUED FOR A DIVORCE

Is Figuring in Limelight Again, in Oklahoma.

DRUNKENNESS AND NEGLECT IS CHARGED

The Johnsons Are Married in Muskogee, Last February—Defendant Marries Woman Who Is Wealthy, but Has Spectacular Career—Story of Domestic Infelicity.

William F. Johnson, former clerk of Marion county, whose first wife obtained a divorce decree five years ago, is the defendant in a suit for a divorce brought by his Oklahoma wife, according to the Muskogee Phoenix published at Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Johnson filed her petition for a divorce from Johnson in the superior court in that city last Monday. She alleges cruel and abusive treatment, drunkenness, neglect and failure to support. A diamond ring also enters the story of their marital relations. The Johnsons were married in Muskogee last February.

As Recorded in Court.

According to the story the court records tell, as published in half a column story carried by the Phoenix, Mrs. Johnson, after eighteen years of uneventful married life, featured only by hard toil and thrift, formed a platonic friendship with one Archie W. Culp. From that time, more than two years ago, one sensational case after another is declared to have appeared rapidly in the Muskogee courts, in which the former quiet and unassuming housewife figured.

Mrs. Johnson's first husband was John G. Huber. During the eighteen years she lived with him they amassed a fortune. They owned a four-story brick building at Second and Okmulgee streets, and the Missouri hotel building. Together, according to the Oklahoma newspaper, they had saved and made over $135,000. Then the thunderbolt came in August 1910, when the husband sued Archie W. Culp, of Muskogee, for $60,000 damages for alienation of his wife's affections. It was alleged that Culp, while rooming at the Missouri hotel, won the love of the woman, who forgot husband, home and children. This suit was soon dismissed and was followed by a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Huber.

An Airing in Court.

To make a long story short, she was granted a decree and was married to Culp. Soon after the marriage she was divorced from Culp and later sued him for $35,500. It was then that all the sensational details of her married life were aired in court. It was about this time that the former Marion man appeared on the scene. He married her, assumed charge of the Kentucky hotel, and conducted it in opposition to the Missouri, which her first husband still owned. Now she declares her third husband is no better than her others. She alleged that Johnson was about to leave the country, and that he had in his possession a diamond ring, valued at $500, which belonged to her. She further alleged that almost from the day of their marriage, on Groundhog Day, Johnson refused to provide for her, drank heavily and cursed her.

PETIT LARCENY IS THE VERDICT OF THE JURY

The Result of the Trial of Joseph Martin.

JURORS DELIBERATE ABOUT EIGHT HOURS

Jurors Divided as to the Penalty. Court Is Asked for Information as to the Penalties and Gives Proper Instructions—Jury Reports at 5 O'Clock.

Joseph Martin, indicted along with Frank Phillips, now in the penitentiary, for burglary and larceny, was convicted of petit larceny by a jury in the court of common pleas, Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The maximum penalty for the misdemeanor is $200 fine and thirty days in the workhouse or jail.

According to the statement of jurors, six wanted to convict Martin for burglary and grand larceny and send him to the penitentiary. The other six did not want to send him to the penitentiary, but wanted to convict him of an offense that would carry a reformatory sentence. After debating the question for several hours, the jurors came back into the court-room and asked the court what the penalties of the different offenses would be. Judge Babst told them that they were not concerned about the penalty, but were to determine the guilt or innocence of the prisoner. Only the court was concerned as to the penalty, he told them.

The jurors then retired and convicted Martin of petit larceny, fixing the value of the stolen property at $32 so as to bring the amount below the grand larceny sum of $35. Friday the jurors had no hesitancy in saying that the compromise was made between them on the theory that the conviction would carry with it a reformatory sentence.

Attorney Lloyd P. DeGolley attempted to prove an alibi for his client. The jurors deliberated about eight hours before returning a verdict. They were: J. W. Kennedy, M. J. Morral, Garrett Harris, A. F. Goerlich, R. M. Hipple, D. V. Lehman, H. H. Freeman, J. E. Bending, G. W. Black, C. F. Berringer, J. R. Merchant and J. W. Smith.

Martin was arrested last January and has been in jail ever since.

Thursday afternoon, Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, in the injunction matter of Josephine B. Cusick against the county treasurer, sustained the demurrer of the plaintiff to the defendant's answer and amended answer. The demurrer set up that the facts stated by the defendants were insufficient in law to constitute a defense. The plaintiff obtained a temporary injunction restraining the collection of a $154 assessment on the Silver street paving.

THE DEMOCRATS FINISH TICKET

Wilson and Marshall Are the Nominees.

END OF CONVENTION MOST HARMONIOUS

No Debate Is Made Regarding Platform.

Convention That Runs into Second Week of Labor, Adjourns Sine Die at 2 O'Clock This Morning, and Weary Delegates Hurry Homeward—Marshall's Nomination Is Made Unanimous.

THE TICKET.

For President—
WOODROW WILSON of New Jersey.
For Vice President—
THOMAS R. MARSHALL of Indiana.

Baltimore, July 3—The Democratic national convention adjourned sine die at 2 o'clock this morning after having nominated Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for president and Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana for vice president and adopting a platform. Harmony marked the final session.

The nomination of Governor Wilson came at 3:33 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The nomination came on the fourth ballot of the day and the forty-sixth of the convention. Wilson on the final vote got 990, Clark 84 and Harmon 12. The nomination was then made unanimous.

Governor Marshall was nominated at 1:55 this morning, after two ballots had been taken. The convention adjourned two minutes later. Governor Burke of North Dakota was Marshall's principal rival for the honor.

William J. Bryan caused trouble in the closing scenes of the convention by taking the platform and endorsing Governor Burke and United States Senator George F. Chamberlain of Oregon as against Marshall. Charles F. Murphy and other leaders who have been fighting Bryan lined up for Marshall.

On the first ballot Burke got 305½, Marshall 389, Chamberlain 157, Elmore Hurst of Illinois 77, Mayor Preston of Baltimore 58, Wade of Iowa 26, William F. McCombs, Wilson's campaign manager, 18, and others scattering.

On the second ballot Marshall received 645½, as compared with 387½ by Burke and 12½ by Chamberlain. The chairman of the North Dakota delegation thereupon moved that the nomination be made unanimous, after having withdrawn Governor Burke's name.

This was a final defeat and humiliation for Bryan in the convention, and Murphy and others seemed to get considerable comfort out of it.

Serious efforts were made by Democratic leaders earlier in the evening to persuade Champ Clark to accept the nomination for vice president. Governor Wilson wanted him, but he declined.

The Final Session.

The final session of the convention opened at 9 o'clock last night with skylarking and serenading.

The great strain was over, the tension released and the very men who had been glaring at each other like wild animals and calling each other out of their names only a few hours before were now shaking hands, hugging and mingling their voices in songs and cheers. Even the Missourians, indignant and angry as they were over the defeat of Champ Clark, parted their dismal faces in the middle now and then and managed to display considerable good nature. The session was late in getting under way because the peacemakers were at work endeavoring to select a candidate for vice president who would help to bring about complete harmony.

The two names most discussed were those of Champ Clark and Governor Marshall of Indiana. Bryan, who had received a smashing cheer when he entered at 9:30, the cheer that seemed to be a spontaneous tribute to the Nebraskan, was telling his friends that any of several men suggested would be satisfactory to him.

"How about Champ Clark?" Mr. Bryan was asked.

"Oh, I'd be for Champ," replied Bryan.

Ollie James opened the convention at 9 p. m. After the prayer, H. H. Dean of Georgia placed in nomination for vice president Champ Clark, and paid a fine tribute to the speaker.

Ex-Governor Dockery of Missouri then went to the platform. He said: "The Hon. Champ Clark has decided he can not accept the nomination for vice president. But I want to say to you that Champ Clark will be as loyal to the nominee of this convention as any man. He has not reached his conclusion in pique, but for the reason that he would prefer to remain as a representative in congress."

The storm of cheers, in which the men who were responsible for Wilson's nomination joined as heartily as the friends of the speaker, was a plain indication of the good feeling that was replacing the soreness and bitterness of the afternoon.

Former Senator Purcell of North Dakota, after a handsome compliment to Champ Clark, nominated Governor John Burke of North Carolina. Idaho seconded the nomination of Burke. They were not so fortunate when Illinois was called.

Samuel Alschuler of Illinois nominated Elmore Hurst, a wealthy business man of Rock Island.

Major F. J. Menzies of Mt. Vernon, Ind., nominated Governor Marshall of Hoosierdom, who, he said, "took his Democracy in his mother's milk." The mention of Marshall's name stirred the first demonstration.

Henry Vollmer of Iowa presented the name of Judge Martin Wade, the national committeeman from Iowa and one of Champ Clark's most earnest followers.

"That would be a beautiful combination," said Vollmer. "If you expect to attend the Republican funeral you'd better march behind Wilson and Wade."

But Judge Wade himself appeared embarrassed, he admitted, by the action of his friends in naming him, and seconded the nomination of Governor Burke.

Kern Reads Platform.

A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania asked for unanimous consent to suspend the rules so that the committee on resolutions, which was waiting, could report the platform. The consent was obtained and Senator John W. Kern of Indiana started to read the long document. Mr. Kern then moved the adoption of the platform, and there was not a dissenting vote.

The names of the new national committee were read. Thomas Taggart of Indiana proposed that Chairman James be appointed chairman of the committee to notify Woodrow Wilson, and Alton B. Parker chairman of the committee to notify the vice presidential nominee.

The business of naming candidates for vice president was resumed at 12:10. The nomination of Governor Burke of North Dakota was seconded by Delegate S. A. Stockwell of Minnesota. Mississippi raised a shout for Governor Marshall. Everything pointed to the nomination of Governor Marshall.

When New York was called Murphy passed without getting out of his seat. Alfalfa Bill Murray seconded Governor Burke for Oklahoma.

W. R. King of Portland, Ore., nominated ex-Governor George E. Chamberlain for vice president; Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi seconded the nomination of Governor Chamberlain.

Congressman Robert L. Henry of Texas seconded the nomination of John Burke. Connecticut and Utah seconded the nomination of Marshall.

At 12:40 a. m. W. J. Bryan was nominated by R. E. Mattingly of the District of Columbia and there was a big demonstration. At 12:42 a. m. the roll call on the first ballot for vice president was begun. Mr. Bryan's speech selecting Burke and Chamberlain as his candidates and ignoring Marshall seemed to be the signal for a new fight. Taggart and Murphy and others who have fought Bryan openly or secretly from beginning to end were busy arranging combinations for Marshall. Anything to humiliate Bryan if possible.

As the roll was called the vote was split all ways, Marshall starting off in the lead, however. Arkansas cast 18 votes for William F. McCombs, who was manager of Governor Wilson's campaign. There was a vote for Sulzer. Iowa voted for Wade, who had been one of Burke's seconders.

The first ballot for vice president resulted as follows: Burke 305½, Marshall 389, Chamberlain 157, Hurst 77, Preston 58, McCombs 18, Sulzer 3, Wade 26, Osborne 8; absent 46½.

The second ballot resulted as follows: Burke 387½, Marshall 645½, Chamberlain 12½.

On motion the nomination of Marshall was made by acclamation.

Harmon Delegates Loyal.

Baltimore, July 3.—Ten and one-half Ohio votes stood by Governor Harmon to the last.

Ohio passed on the final roll and Mr. Moore spoke at the end of the call. In releasing the delegates he recounted briefly Governor Harmon's achievements. A few faint cries of approval went through the big hall as he pronounced the governor a champion of progressive legislation and the redeemer of the state from Republican rule.

The New Jersey governor got 33 votes from Ohio on the final ballot. One and one-half votes were absent—Thomas Conners of Cincinnati with a full vote and J. W. MacMahon, delegate-at-large, with half a vote. Don Young, Fourteenth district man, voted for Champ Clark as a protest against Wilson.

The votes for Harmon were cast by Delegates-at-Large James E. Campbell, M. A. Daugherty, Hugh L. Nichols, James Ross, Thomas J. Cogan, William Green and W. S. Thomas and District Delegates James Fitzgibbon of Newark, Jacob Dean of Pomeroy, Samuel Murray of Cincinnati, Fred J. Heer of Columbus, John W. Devanney of Cincinnati, . W. Lingo of Lebanon and E. H. Moore of Youngstown.

The little guard of Harmon men left here are busying themselves settling up for heavy hotel and headquarters expenses and storing away the "properties" of the campaign. One and all say they are to throw coats off when back in Ohio to elect the ticket and not allow factional differences to cause the loss of the state to President Taft.

More pleased than any one else at the nomination of a radical is Mayor Baker, who has been advocating Governor Wilson's cause for months. He alone of the Ohio delegation has won distinction in Baltimore through his successful fight against the unit rule, the final blow given the Harmon candidacy. Never again will the unit rule be imposed in a Democratic convention in Ohio, leaders say.

Taft Hears News.

Washington, [illegible] Taft heard the news of Governor Wilson's nomination while at luncheon in the White House with Mrs. Taft and other members of his family. The President declined to comment and a few minutes later left for the Chevy Chase links to play golf.

Friends of Mr. Taft, however, said that they could find a grain of comford in the selection of the Baltimore convention. Expecting Colonel Roosevelt to continue his plan for a third party, they count upon the progressive element's splitting between Roosevelt and Wilson.

It is well known in Washington that the president and his friends feared the nomination of Governor Harmon or Oscar Underwood far more than they did that of Governor Wilson.

Finds Solace in Golf.

Columbus, O., July 3.—Congratulations were sent to Woodrow Wilson by Governor Harmon as soon as the decision of the Democratic national convention at Baltimore was received here. The message was terse and complimented the New Jersey governor on the honor conferred on him. Governor Harmon said he appreciated the loyalty of the Ohio delegates who stood by him through the final ballot. He made no further comments on the outcome of the convention, and left for the Arlington Golf club.

Clark Blames Bryan.

Washington, July 3.—Defeated after a hard battle, but satisfied with the fortunes of war, Speaker Clark returned to the capital from the convention city and repaired to his office to thunder his renunciation of the vice presidency over the telephone as often as it was suggested to him. He also gave out a formal statement in which he denounced William Jennings Bryan for his "atrocious slanders" against him and blamed the Nebraskan for his defeat.

Appreciates the Honor.

Sea Girt, N. Y., July 3.—Governor Wilson, in commenting on his nomination, said: "The honor is as great as can come to any man by the nomination of a party, especially in the circumstances, and I hope I appreciate it at its true value; but just at this moment I feel the tremendous responsibility it involves, even more than I feel the honor. I hope with all my heart that the party will never have reason to regret it."

Never Thought of White House.

Seagirt, N. J., July 3.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who may be the next first lady of the land, says she had never thought of living in the White House until a reporter suggested the possibility to her. "I have been so wrapped up in Mr. Wilson's prospects," she said, "that I have thought of little else. I don't know how I would like it."

SAD NEWS COMES FROM ACROSS SEA WEDNESDAY

A Letter Announces the Death of "Neil" O'Donnell in Ireland.

IS A STURDY CITIZEN AND STEADFAST FRIEND

Endears Himself to Hundreds of Marion Friends During Thirty Years of Residence Here—Belated Tidings Are Received with Deep Regret.

Quaint little old "Neil" O'Donnell is dead. He died more than three weeks ago at the home of a niece at Newport, Ireland, where he had gone to pass the declining days of his life, after amassing a snug little fortune during the thirty years that he lived in Marion. The cause of his death is not known.

Cornelius O'Donnell was born at Newport about sixty-five years ago. He came to Marion thirty years ago and took up the work of sewer contracting. He was one of the best the city ever had and, because of his industry and frugality, he laid aside enough of his profits to keep him in comfort in the dear old Ireland that he loved so well.

Three years ago "Neil" concluded he would leave America forever, and join his only living relative, a niece, in Ireland. There he told his friends he wanted to remain in peace until he died. Though he loved America much, he loved the old country better, and had often expressed the wish that he should die there. But "Neil" gazed upon America with streaming eyes. He had cried like a child when he said farewell to old Marion friends before departing for New York. He accompanied E. P. Houghton, who was going to England.

A year ago, Judge and Mrs. William E. Scofield in their tour of England, Ireland and Norway, made a special trip to Newport to see Mr. O'Donnell. It was a joyful meeting between two old friends.

News of Mr. O'Donnell's death came in a letter to Mrs. Edward Fergus, of north State street. The letter was written by John Fergus, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Fergus, and was received Tuesday. Beyond saying that Mr. O'Donnell was dead, it gave no further particulars.

THE PLATFORM OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Adopted by the National Democratic Convention.

TARIFF REFORM PLANK IS FIRST THING URGED

Immediate Downward Revision Is Asked—Planks Take Up High Cost of Living, Income Tax, Banking Legislation, Anti-Trust Law and Presidential Primaries.

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States in national convention assembled, reaffirm our devotion to the principles of Democratic government formulated by Thomas Jefferson and enforced by a long and illustrious line of Democratic presidents.

Tariff Reform.

We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government under the constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government honestly and economically administered.

The high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth; it is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer. Under its operations the American farmer and laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raises the cost of the necessaries of life to them, but does not protect their product or wages. The farmer sells largely in free markets and buys almost entirely in the protected markets. In the most highly protected industries such as cotton and wool, steel and iron the wages of the laborers are the lowest paid in any of our industries. We denounce the Republican pretense on that subject and assert that American wages are established by competitive conditions and not by the tariff.

We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high and, in many cases, prohibitive tariff duties, insisting that material reductions be speedily made upon the necessaries of life. Articles entering into competition with trust controlled products and articles of American manufacture which are sold abroad more cheaply than at home should be put upon the free list.

We recognize that our system of tariff taxation is intimately connected with the business of the country, and we favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry.

We denounce the action of President Taft in vetoing the bills to reduce the tariff in the cotton, woolen, metals and chemical schedules and the farmers' free list bill, all of which were designed to give immediate relief to the masses from the exactions of the trusts.

The Republican party, while promising tariff revision, has shown by its tariff legislation that such revision is not to be in the people's interest, and, having been faithless to its pledges of 1908, it should no longer enjoy the confidence of the nation. We appeal to the American people to support us in our demand for a tariff for revenue only.

High Cost of Living.

The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party in its platform attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws, and we assert that no such substantial relief can be secured for the people until import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and these criminal conspiracies broken up.

Anti-trust Law.

A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal as well as the civil law against trusts and trust officials and demand the enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States.

We favor the declaration by law of the conditions upon which corporations shall be permitted to engage in interstate trade, including among others the prevention of holding companies of interlocking directorates, of stock watering, of discrimination in price and the control by any one corporation of so large a proportion of any industry as to make it a menace to competitive conditions.

We condemn the action of the Republican administration in compromising with the Standard Oil company and the tobacco trust and its failure to invoke the criminal provisions of the anti-trust law against the officers of those corporations after the court had declared that from the undisputed facts in the record they had violated the criminal provisions of the law.

We regret that the Sherman anti-trust law has received a judicial construction depriving it of much of its efficiency, and we favor the enactment of legislation which will restore to the statute the strength of which it has been deprived by such interpretation.

Rights of the State.

We believe in the preservation and maintenance in their full strength and integrity of the three co-ordinate branches of the federal government—the executive, the legislative and the judicial—each keeping within its own bounds and not encroaching upon the just powers of either of the others.

Believing that the most efficient results under our system of government are to be attained by the full exercise by the states of their reserved sovereign powers, we denounce as usurpation the efforts of our opponents to deprive the states of any of the rights reserved to them and to enlarge and magnify by indirection the powers of the federal government.

We insist upon the full exercise of all the powers of government, both state and national, to protect the people from injustice at the hands of those who seek to make the government a private asset in business. There is no twilight zone between the nation and the state in which exploiting interests can take refuge from both. It is as necessary that the federal government shall exercise the powers delegated to it as it is that the states shall exercise the powers reserved to them, but we insist that federal remedies for the regulation of interstate commerce and for the prevention of private monopoly shall be added to and not substituted for state remedies.

Income Tax and Popular Election of Senators.

We congratulate the country upon the triumph of two important reforms demanded in the last national platform—namely, the amendment of the federal constitution authorizing an income tax and the amendment providing for the popular election of senators—and we call upon the people of all the states to rally to the support of the pending propositions and secure their ratification.

We note with gratification the unanimous sentiment in favor of publicity before the election of campaign contributions, a measure demanded in our national platform of 1908 and at that time opposed by the Republican party, and we commend the Democratic house of representatives for extending the doctrine of publicity to recommendations, verbal and written, upon which presidential appointments are made, to the ownership and control of newspapers and to the expenditures made by and in behalf of those who aspire to presidential nominations, and we point for additional justification for this legislation to the enormous expenditures of money in behalf of the president and his predecessor in the recent contest for the Republican nomination for president.

Presidential Primaries.

The movement toward more popular government should be promoted through legislation in each state which will permit the expression of the preference of the electors for national candidates at presidential primaries.

We direct that the national committee incorporate in the call for the next nominating convention a requirement that all expressions of preference for presidential candidates shall be given and the selection of delegates and alternates made through a primary election conducted by the party organization in each state where such expression and election are not provided for by state law. Committeemen who are hereafter to constitute the membership of the Democratic national committee and whose election is not provided for by law shall be chosen in each state at such primary elections, and the service and authority of committeemen, however chosen, shall begin immediately upon the receipt of their credentials respectively.

Campaign Contributions.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund and any individual from contributing any amount above a reasonable maximum.

Term of President.

We favor a single presidential term and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the president of the United States ineligible to re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

Democratic Congress.

At this time, when the Republican party, after a generation of unlimited power in its control of the federal government, is rent into factions, it is opportune to point to the record of accomplishment of the Democratic house of representatives in the Sixty-second congress. We indorse its action, and we challenge comparison of its record with that of any congress which has been controlled by our opponents. We call the attention of the patriotic citizens of our country to its record of efficiency, economy and constructive legislation.

It has among other achievements revised the rules of the house of representatives so as to give to the representatives of the American people freedom of speech and of action in advocating, proposing and perfecting remedial legislation.

It has passed bills for the relief of the people and the development of our country. It has endeavored to revise the tariff taxes downward in the interest of the consuming masses and thus to reduce the high cost of living.

It has proposed an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people.

It has secured the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as two sovereign states.

It has required the publicity of campaign expenses both before and after election and fixed a limit upon the election expenses of United States senators and representatives.

It has passed a bill to prevent the abuse of the writ of injunction. It has passed a law establishing an eight hour day for workmen on all national public work.

It has passed a resolution which forced the president to take immediate steps to abrogate the Russian treaty.

And it has passed the great supply bills which lessen waste and extravagance and which reduce the annual expenses of the government by many millions of dollars.

We approve the measure reported by the Democratic leaders in the house of representatives for the creation of a council of national defense which will determine a definite naval program with a view to increased efficiency and economy. The party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe doctrine [illegible] was sponsor for the new navy will continue faithfully to observe the constitutional requirements to provide and maintain an adequate and well proportioned navy sufficient to defend American policies, protect our citizens and uphold the honor and dignity of the nation.

Republican Extravagance.

We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befit a Democratic government and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.

Railroads, Express Companies, Telegraph and Telephone Lines.

We favor the efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines engaged in interstate commerce. To this end we recommend the valuation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines by the interstate commerce commission, such valuation to take into consideration the physical value of the property, the original cost, the cost of the production and any element of value that will render the valuation fair and just.

We favor such legislation as will effectually prohibit the railroads, express, telegraph and telephone companies from engaging in business which brings them into competition with shippers or patrons; also legislation preventing overissue of stocks and bonds by interstate railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines and legislation which will assure such reduction in transportation rates as conditions will permit, care being taken to avoid reductions that would compel a reduction of wages, prevent adequate service or do injustice to legitimate investments.

Banking Legislation.

We oppose the so called Aldrich bill or the establishment of a central bank, and we believe our country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities in which such relief is needed, with protection from control or dominion by what is known as the money trust.

Banks exist for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it.

We condemn the present methods of depositing government funds in a few favored banks, largely situated in or controlled by Wall street, in return for political favors, and we pledge our party to provide by law for their deposit by competitive bidding in the banking institutions of the country, national and state, without discrimination as to locality, upon approved securities and subject to call by the government.

Rural Credits.

Of equal importance with the question of currency reform is the question of rural credits or agricultural finance. Therefore we recommend that an investigation of agricultural credit societies in foreign countries be made, so that it may be ascertained whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States, and we also favor legislation permitting national banks to loan a reasonable proportion of their funds on real estate security.

We recognize the value of vocational education and urge federal appropriations for such training and extension teaching in agriculture in co-operation with the several states.

Waterways.

We renew the declaration in our last platform relating to the conservation of our natural resources and the development of our waterways. The present devastation of the lower Mississippi valley accentuates the movement for the regulation of river flow by additional bank and levee protection below and the diversion, storage and control of the flood waters above and their utilization for beneficial purposes in the reclamation of arid and swamp lands and the development of water power instead of permitting the floods to continue, as heretofore, agents of destruction.

We hold that the control of the Mississippi river is a national problem. The preservation of the depth of its water for the purpose of navigation, the building of levees to maintain the integrity of its channel and the prevention of the overflow of the land and its consequent devastation, resulting in the interruption of interstate commerce, the disorganization of the mail service and the enormous loss of life and property, impose an obligation which alone can be discharged by the general government.

To maintain an adequate depth of water the entire year and thereby encourage water transportation is a consummation worthy of legislative attention and presents an issue national in its character. It calls for prompt action on the part of congress, and the Democratic party pledges itself to the enactment of legislation leading to that end.

We favor the co-operation of the United States and the respective states in plans for the comprehensive treatment of all waterways, with a view of co-ordinating plans for channel improvement, with plans for drainage of swamp and overflowed lands, and to this end we favor the appropriation by the federal government of sufficient funds to make surveys of such lands, to develop plans for draining the same and to supervise the work of construction.

We favor the adoption of a liberal and comprehensive plan for the development and improvement of our inland waterways with economy and efficiency so as to permit their navigation by vessels of standard draft.

Post Roads.

We favor national aid to state and local authorities in the construction and maintenance of post roads.

Rights of Labor.

We repeat our declarations of the platform of 1908 as follows:

The courts of justice are the bulwark of our liberties, and we yield to none in our purpose to maintain their dignity. Our party has given to the bench a long line of distinguished justices, who have added to the respect and confidence in which this department must be jealously maintained. We resent the attempt of the Republican party to raise a false issue respecting the judiciary, an unjust reflection upon a great body of our citizens to assume that they lack respect for the courts.

It is the function of the courts to interpret the laws which the people enact, and if the laws appear to work economic, social or political injustice it is our duty to change them. The only basis upon which the integrity of our courts can stand is that of unswerving justice and protection of life, personal liberty and property. As judicial processes may be abused we should guard them against abuse.

Experience has proved the necessity of a modification of the present law relating to injunction, and we reiterate the pledges of our platform of 1896 and 1904 in favor of a measure which passed the United States senate in 1896 relating to contempt in federal courts and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

Questons of judicial practice have arisen, especially in connection with industrial disputes. We believe that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which an injunction would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved.

The expanding organization of industry makes it essential that there should be no abridgment of the right of wage earners and producers to organize for the protection of wages and the improvement of labor conditions to the end that such labor organizations and their members should not be regarded as illegal combinations in restraint of trade.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law creating a department of labor represented separately in the president's cabinet, in which department shall be included the subject of mines and mining.

We pledge the Democratic party, so far as the federal jurisdiction extends, to an employees' compensation law providing adequate indemnity for injury to body or loss of life.

Conservation.

We believe in the conservation and the development for the use of all the people of the natural resources of the country. Our forests, our sources of water supply, our arable and our mineral lands, our navigable streams and all the other material resources with which our country has been lavishly endowed constitute the foundation of our national wealth. Such additional legislation as may be necessary to prevent their being wasted or absorbed by special or privileged interests should be enacted, and the policy of their conservation should be rigidly adhered to.

The public domain should be administered and disposed of with due regard to the general welfare. Reservations should be limited to the purpose which they purport to serve and not extended to include land wholly unsuited therefor. The unnecessary withdrawal from sale and settlement of enormous tracts of public land upon which tree growth never existed and cannot be promoted tends only to retard development, create discontent and bring reproach upon the policy of conservation.

The public land laws should be administered in a spirit of the broadest liberality toward the settler exhibiting a bona fide purpose to comply therewith to the end that the invitation of this government to the landless shall be as attractive as possible, and the plain provisions of the forest reserve act permitting homestead entries to be made within the national forests should not be nullified by administrative regulations, which amount to withdrawal of great areas of the same from settlement.

Immediate action should be taken by congress to make available the valuable coal deposits of Alaska under conditions that will be a permanent guaranty against their falling into the hands of monopolizing corporations or associations or interests.

We rejoice in the inheritance of our natural resources unequaled in extent, variety or value and in the development of a mining industry unequaled in magnitude and importance. We honor the men who in their hazardous work underground daily risk their lives in extracting and preparing for our use the products of the mine so essential to the industries, the commerce and the comfort of the people of this country. And we pledge ourselves to the extension of the work of the bureau of mines in every way appropriate for additional legislation with a view to further guarding the lives of miners, lessening the waste of essential resources and promoting the economic development of mining, which, along with agriculture, must in the future even more than in the past serve as the very foundation of our national prosperity and welfare and our internal commerce.

Agriculture.

We believe in encouraging the development of a modern system of agriculture and a systematic effort to fully meet the conditions of trade in farm products so as to benefit both the consumers and producers. And as an efficient means to this end we favor the enactment by congress of legislation which will suppress the pernicious practice of gambling in agricultural products and organized exchanges or others.

Merchant Marine.

We believe in fostering by constructional regulation of commerce the growth of a merchant marine which shall develop and strengthen the commercial ties which bind us to our sister republics of the south, but without additional burdens upon the people and without imposing bounties or subsidies from the public treasury.

We urge upon congress the speedy enactment of laws for the greater security of life and property at sea and we favor the repeal of all laws and the abrogation of so much of treaties with other nations as prevent for the arrest and imprisonment of seamen charged with desertion or violation of their contract of service. Such laws and treaties are un-American and violate the spirit if not the letter of the constitution of the United States.

We favor the exemption from tolls of American ships engaged in coastwise trade passing through the Panama canal.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®
NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

We also favor legislation forbidding the use of the Panama canal by ships owned or controlled by railroad carriers engaged in transportation competitive with the canal.

Pure Food and Public Health.

We reaffirm our previous declarations advocating the union and strengthening of the various governmental agencies relating to pure foods, quarantine, vital statistics and human health. Thus united and administered without partiality to or discrimination against any school of medicine or system of healing, they would constitute a single health service, not subordinated to any commercial or financial interests, but devoted exclusively to the conservation of human life and efficiency. Moreover, this health service should co-operate with the health agencies of our various states and cities, without interference with their prerogatives or with the freedom of individuals to employ such medical or hygienic aid as they may see fit.

Civil Service Law.

The law pertaining to the civil service should be honestly and rigidly enforced, to the end that merit and ability shall be the standard of appointment and promotion rather than service rendered to a political party, and we favor a reorganization of the civil service, with adequate compensation commensurate with the class of work performed, for all officers and employees; we also favor the extension to all classes of civil service employees the benefits of the provisions of the employers' liability law.

We also recognize the right of direct petition to congress by employees for the redress of grievances.

We recognize the urgent need of reform in the administration of civil and criminal law in the United States, and we recommend the enactment of such legislation and the promotion of such measures as will rid the present legal system of the delays, expense and uncertainties incident to the system as now administered.

The Philippines.

We reaffirm the position thrice announced by the Democracy in national convention assembled against a policy of imperialism and colonial exploitation in the Philippines or elsewhere. We condemn the experiment in imperialism as an inexcusable blunder which has involved us in enormous expense, brought us weakness instead of strength and laid our nation open to the charge of abandonment of the fundamental doctrine of self government. We favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us until the neutralization of the islands can be secured by treaty with other powers. In recognizing the independence of the Philippines our government should retain such land as may be necessary for coaling stations and naval bases.

Arizona and New Mexico.

We welcome Arizona and New Mexico to the sisterhood of states and heartily congratulate them upon their auspicious beginning of great and glorious careers

Alaska.

We demand for the people of Alaska the full enjoyment of the rights and privileges of a territorial form of government, and we believe that the officials appointed to administer the government of all our territories and the District of Columbia should be qualified by previous bona fide residence.

The Russian Treaty.

We commend the patriotism of the Democratic members of the senate and house of representatives which compelled the termination of the Russian treaty of 1832, and we pledge ourselves anew to preserve the sacred rights of American citizenship at home and abroad No treaty should receive the sanction of our government which does not recognize the equality of all of our citizens irrespective of race or creed and which does not expressly guarantee the fundamental right of expatriation

The constitutional rights of American citizens should protect them on our borders and go with them throughout the world, and every American citizen residing or having property in any foreign country is entitled to and must be given the full protection of the United States government, both for himself and his property.

Parcels Post and Rural Delivery.

We favor the establishment of a parcel post or postal express and also the extension of the rural delivery system as rapidly as practicable.

Panama Canal Exposition.

We hereby express our deep interest in the great Panama Canal exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915 and favor such encouragement as can be properly given.

Protection of National Uniform.

We commend to the several states the adoption of a law making it an offense for the proprietors of places of public amusement and entertainment to discriminate against the uniform of the United States similar to the law passed by congress applicable to the District of Columbia and the territories in 1911.

Pensions.

We renew the declaration of our last platform relating to a generous pension policy.

Rule of the People.

We call attention to the fact that the Democratic party's demand for a return to the rule of the people expressed in the national platform four years ago has now become the accepted doctrine of a large majority of the electors. We again remind the country that only by a larger exercise of the reserved power of the people can they protect themselves from the misuse of delegated power and the usurpation of governmental instrumentalities by special interests. For this reason the national convention insisted on the overthrow of Cannonism and the inauguration of a system by which United States senators could be elected by direct vote. The Democratic party offers itself to the country as an agency through which the complete overthrow and extirpation of corruption, fraud and machine rule in American politics can be effected.

Conclusion.

Our platform is one of principles which we believe to be essential to our national welfare. Our pledges are made to be kept when in office as well as relied upon during the campaign, and we invite the co-operation of all citizens, regardless of party, who believe in maintaining unimpaired the institutions and traditions of our country.

PATRICK SMITH HAS VERY NARROW ESCAPE

Horse Is Instantly Killed and Driver Badly Burned.

SMITH IS RENDERED UNCONSCIOUS FOR TIME

A Traveler Picks Victim Up and Takes Him to His Home Where He Is Given the Necessary Surgical Attention—Some Freak Work of the Bolt Tuesday Afternoon.

Patrick Smith, who resides two miles south of Marion on the Prospect pike, had a narrow escape from being struck by lightening during the electrical storm, Tuesday afternoon. The horse which Mr. Smith was driving was struck by the bolt and killed, while Mr. Smith was rendered unconscious, and quite severely burned about the ears, neck and ankles.

Mr. Smith was driving towards Marion in a wagon drawn by one horse. At a point one mile south of the city, the lightening struck the horse. When Mr. Smith recovered consciousness a short time later, he was lying in the road and his horse was dead At this time a traveler, picked Mr. Smith up and took him to his home, where Dr. C. E. Sawyer was called to attend him. The shafts of the wagon were broken, one being burned, while the wagon was otherwise damaged. Mr. Smith was able to be around, next morning, but was very nervous and weak as the result of his experience.

PIKES AND DITCHES BEING CONSTRUCTED

Commissioners Are Busy with Many Ditches.

THE DITCH HEARINGS FOR PRESENT MONTH

The Tymochtee Ditch Will Be the Most Important—The Cost of the Improvement Will Reach $60,000 and Much of Cost Will Fall on County's Taxpayers.

Marion county is not only building pikes on a large scale, but it is constructing about as many ditches as any other agricultural county of similar size in Ohio.

An idea of the vast amount of ditch work now under way and contemplated may be obtained from the county commissioners' ditch calendar for July.

Ditch hearings will be held as follows during the month:

Firstenbergerer on the 10th; the Muskrat on the 11th; the Sgarrock on the 15th; the Dunn on the 17th, and the Tymochtee on the 30th.

It is estimated that the cost of the above improvements will total nearly $200,000.

In addition to the July ditch improvements down on the calendar, the months of August, September and October carry about the same number. New pikes mean new ditches, and new ditches mean a heavier yield of crops.

Of the July ditch hearings that of the Tymochtee is by far the most important, as it will involve an expenditure estimated at close to $60,000 The Tymochtee, as has been stated in the Star, is to be deepened, straightened and widened. Wyandot, Hardin and Marion counties will pay for the improvement, but the taxpayers of this county will have to bear the major part of the cost. The hearing will be held at Upper Sandusky in the morning at 11 o'clock.

The final hearing on the Prettyman ditch has been adjourned until August 14. The hearing was to have been held before the commissioners, Tuesday afternoon, but it was continued because all of the landowners had not been notified.

The Prettyman ditch will be tiled from the Crissinger farm, southwest of Agosta, to the Little Scioto river. Twenty-inch tiling will be used.

Chautauqua officials declare that this year's "Chautauqua is on the go far beyond the fondest hope of the most enthusiastic Chautauquaite."

As is well known, the program this year is the equal of that last year Some people think it is superior in a great many ways.

Chautauqua officials say they have been warmly congratulated because of securing the services of Mr. Bain as superintendent of the tenting grounds. They say he is the best-fitted man for the job in Marion county.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the association in the office of W. T. Jones, the president, Tuesday night, every detail of the big Chautauqua program was discussed The members were highly pleased with the prospects.

Improvements are being made all along the line. The auto park will be in perfect order, it was announced Wednesday. The facilities for hitching horses will be greatly increased, and more and better lights will be installed.

JOHN IVEN BROBECK HURT IN ACCIDENT

A Firecracker Explodes in Face and Burns an Eye.

RICHWOOD WOMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED

Mrs. George Montgomery Falls While Picking Cherries—Internal Injuries Are Feared—Mrs. C. W. Baker Entertains Ladies' Aid Society—Other Richwood Items.

Richwood, O., July 2.—[Special.]—Master John Iven Brobeck, the six-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. I. J. Brobeck, was painfully injured while playing with firecrackers, Friday afternoon. The little fellow lighted a cracker and it is presumed that he held it in his hand until it exploded in his face. He was badly frightened and ran to his mother. Dr. L. L. Roebuck was called and it was found that the left eyeball had been burned. Although the injury has caused the child great pain, the surgeon believes that the sight will not be impaired.

Miss Lydia Robertson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Robertson, who reside north of Richwood, returned home, a few days ago, from the Jane Case hospital, in Delaware, where she spent several weeks and passed through a serious opration. She is slowly imroving.

Houghton Millar, John Morris and Simeon Adams arrived home, Thursday, from Camp Budd, on the Olentangy river, where they spent several days. The camp was composed of nineteen Y. M. C. A. boys, eleven from Union county and eight from Mt. Vernon. Their outing proved very delightful.

Mrs. Camilla Blair has been critically ill of pneumonia, during the past week.

Mrs. George Montgomery was seriously injured, Wednesday afternoon, while picking cherries at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Alexander, of west Ottawa street. The ladder on which she was standing, slipped, and she fell heavily to the ground. She was rendered unconscious and was removed to her home in north Franklin street in Winter's ambulance. Dr. L. L. Roebuck made a thorough examination and while no bones were broken, he found the patient badly bruised and there may be internal injuries, as her improvement is very slow.

Mrs. C. W. Baker, the president of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. P church, entertained the members, Wednesday afternoon, at her home on east Blagrove street. A business and social session was held.

Saturday will Mark the Opening of What is Sure to be the Most Important July Clearing Sale Marion has ever Witnessed

THE "weather man" has had a hand in helping to make this greater than all previous July sales. He held "hot weather" a month or two behind its regular schedule time. As a result, many manufacturers and jobbers have felt it the best policy to make a "clean sweep" of their stock on hands. Since we had long anticipated just such a move on their part we were watchful and ready to take advantage the moment the opportunity came. And now we are splendidly ready with the choicest, the newest and best merchandise—bought way under price—and to be sold in exactly the same way.

And along with all such specially purchased merchandise—every department in the store next Saturday starts CLEARING DECKS in drastic fashion. One hundred thousand dollars worth and more of the finest and most desirable of this spring's and summer's merchandise—are to be included in the monster sacrifice.

Which means there'll be THOUSANDS and THOUSANDS OF BETTER BARGAINS than any other Marion store will even pretend to offer you.
